Grandes problemas que afronta nuestra Provincia Banco Internacional para la reconstrucción y desarrollo

Con la mira puesta en la solución de los grandes problemas que afronta nuestra Provincia y con el interés de contribuir con la iniciativa a la satisfacción de esos problemas, conversamos con algunos financieros acerca de la reconstrucción del puente de Penshurst. Encuentran buena, en algunos puntos, nuestra exposición de la semana pasada sobre de este tema, pero su idea es que del dinero que la Compañía Bananera entregará al Gobierno con motivo de los nuevos contratos, se destine una parte a la Zona Atlántica y por consecuencia al puente. Es una gran extensión de terrenos cultivados la que está completamente aislada y que por los productos que se exportan de esa región, el País recibe un margen de dinero tan preciado hoy más que nunca.

Es justo, además, que se le ayude a Limón Los Limonenses estamos acostumbrados a solucionar nuestros problemas sin la ayuda del Gobierno que en otras ocasiones se ha desentendido de los intereses del Atlántico. En una palabra, hemos marchado solos. Pero ahora, notamos en las esferas oficiales otra manera de pensar. Sentimos en la preocupación del Sr. Presidente y su Gabinete un decidido afán de servirle a cada uno según sus necesidades. Por eso nos sentimos alentados a exponerle lo que nos urge y estamos seguros de que nuestras palabras no se quedarán en el vacío.

El Seguro Social se ha instalado confortable

El Seguro Social se ha instalado en un local propio desoso de prestar a sus asegurados un servicio mejor. Ojalá sea así y el futuro nos demuestre que los propósitos que guiaron la fundación de esa Institución son una realidad tangible entodo su ntención.

La Potencia de Producción de los EE. UU.

He aquí el cuarto de una serie de seis artículos basados en capítulos escogidos del libro recién publicado bajo el título de: U. S. A.: Measure of a Nation, por Thomas R. Carskadon y Rudolf Modley, donde se presentan en forma sencilla los resultados de un estudio comprensivo denominado America's Needs and Resources, por J. Frederic Dewhurst y socios. Ambos trabajos son frutos de un estudio de grande escala hecho por el Twentieth Century Fund, que es una Fundación educativa independiente que se dedica a la investigación científica en el campo de la economía.

En los Estados Unidos de América se mantiene un nivel de vida notablemente alto, y resulta interesante ver cómo se realiza la producción nacional de efectos y servicios, y cómo se distribuye entre el pueblo americano.

El valor en dinero de todas las mercancías y servicios producidos es lo que constituye el "producto nacional bruto", o sea el ingreso total. En los Estados Unidos, la mayor parte del mismo lo reciben individuos en forma de jornales, salarios, rentas, ganancias, dividendos, intereses, honorarios, etc. Una parte del ingreso se le paga al Gobierno--por medio de impuestos y por la compra de bonos de la deuda pública-- y otra parte más pequeña es conservada por los negociantes para la reposición del equipo viejo o desgastado y para fines de crecimiento y expansión.

Ha habido cambios impor-tantes en la distribución de la producción nacional total, entre los consumidores, el gobierno y la formación de capital privado. Se puede tener una idea de estas relaciones tomando nota de cuánto se gasta en cada grupo, ya que lo que se gasta es un buen índice de lo que se recibe; la diferencia se apunta por capítulo de ahorros.

A lo largo de los años la proporción de estos réditos recibidos y pagados por el gobierno ha ido aumentando. Por supuesto que durante la guerra subió aparatosamente la parte del ingreso percibida por el gobierno. La parte que se invierte en compras de mercancías y servicios por los consumidores ha ido disminuyendo--aún cuando las cantidades actuales de dólares ganados han sido mayores. Lo mismo es cierto por lo que hace a los ahorros y a las reservas invertidas en construcciones y expansión de los negocios.

Simultáneamente con estos cambios, la producción nacional en general ha ido en aumento y probablemente seguirá subiendo.

En 1929, alrededor de once centavos de cada dólar de la producción nacional total americana se dedicaban al gasto de efectos y servicios por concepto de gobierno. Hacia 1940, la parte del gobierno había subido a diecisiete por ciento y es probable que llegue a un 19 por ciento en el año de 1960.

Existen dos razones principales de esto. Durante la depresión o crisis económica, el gobierno contrae deudas fuertes para la refacción de sus proyectos de auxilio a los desocupados. La deuda pública aumentó tremendamente durante la guerra. Hoy día se necesita mucho dinero tan sólo para pagar los intereses de esa deuda, para no mencionar el capital de la misma. Item más, este último se tiene que reducir. También, el gobierno ha extendido grandemente todos sus

Discurso pronunciado por el Sr. Eugene R. Black, Presidente del Banco Internacional de Reconstrucción y Fomento, ante la Reunión Anual de Savings Banks Association (Asociación de Caja de Ahorros) del Estado de Nueva York a bordo del «New Amsterdam», el 23 de octubre de 1949.

Es especialmente grata la oportunidad que se me ha brindado para dirigir la palabra a esta convención del New York Savings Banks Association que se reúne a bordo del «New Amsterdam». Difícil sería encontrar un auditorio cuya buena voluntad fuera de mayor trascendencia para el Banco Internacional. Nuestra organización, que cubre todo el Estado de Nueva York y cuenta con activos de más de 10.000 millones de dólares, es una de las más importantes instituciones inversionistas del país. Por eso encuentro que es un tributo a la solidez del Banco el que, desde principios del año, nuestro organismo haya aumentado sus inversiones en bonos del Banco y que ahora los miembros de la Asociación, en Nueva York y Westchester solamente, posean más de la tercera parte del total de los bonos colocados. El 1º de julio último la correspondiente cifra ascendía a 89 millones de dólares, lo que representa un incremento de 14 millones en los seis meses pasados.

Comprendo que un auditorio que ha depositado su confianza en el Banco, está suficientemente enterado de nuestros propósitos y actividades generales. Por eso he decidido no fatigarlos con un discurso de esa naturaleza, sino más bien presentar un cuadro más

De esta manera espero mostrar la realización en la práctica de principios que otras veces he expuesto o que han aparecido impresos en nuestros informes. Hablará acerca de la India.

He escogido este vasto país, que obtuvo su independencia recientemente, porque a pesar de los muchos problemas económicos que tiene por resolver, ofrece prometedoras perspectivas para el futuro.

La nación india ha heredado una rica civilización. No fué un mero accidente el que este país amante de la paz produjera uno de los grandes conductores es-pirituales de nuestro tiempo. Pero necesita desarrollar su prosperidad material. Es cierto que existe una industria moderna en la India que comprende, por ejemplo, fundiciones de acero y fábricas de textiles, pero su producto, aunque considerable, cuando se distribuye entre 340 millones de habitantes representa bien poco. La inmensa mayoría de esas gentes todavía cultiva con métodos anticuados pequeñas parcelas que escasamente producen lo suficiente para vivir. La tarea de levantar su standar de vida se hace más difícil por el hecho de que el aumento de población es pesada carga adicional para una tierra de ya baja productividad.

Al retirarse los británicos, el Gobierno hindú que lo sucedió se encontró frente a un cúmulo de dificultades. La guerra había dejado los sistemas industrial y de transportes con urgente necesidad de reemplazar sus equipos y a la gente con mas dinero del que había podido gastar. Se requería gran cantidad de maquinaria y de repuestos y existía una reprimida demanda de artículos de consumo. Con la independencia vino la división del país y el tremendo desplazamiento de millones de refugiados de una a otra zona. El Gobierno encontró difícil reducir los gastos militares mientras prevalecían los disturbios en Hyderabad y Kashmir. Y, para colmo, el tiempo fué excepcionalmente malo: el monzón que decide la suerte de la cosecha, falló en tres años consecutivos.

EDITORIAL

Tuvimos ocasión algunos días pasados de ver uno o dos poteros en los cuales guardan vacas lecheras; algunas en apariencia trajeron a memoria la narrativa bíblica de las siete vacas flacas vistas en el sueño de Pharaoh.

Se nos vino en mente que el Departamento de Salubridad Pública debería interesarse en el problema de estas condiciones en general de las vacas que se ordeñan para el consumo humano.

Ha sido dado a conocer por estudios científicos que fiebre ondulante y enfermedades entre poblaciones grandes han sido ingestionados por causa de la leche contaminada. La leche es un producto de las vacas y desde luego si estas están infectadas, naturalmente la leche tendrá que estar también.

Cuando los estudios profundos en muchas materias vitales, se ven con negligencia, no podemos llamarnos gentes afortunadas, ni mucho menos creer que estamos a salvo de enfermedades varias. Sabemos que los ganados sirven como depósito de infecciones y los hombres obtienen las enfermedades de una u otra forma por la ingestión de leche contaminada y productos de lechería o bien por contacto de los animales infectados.

No estamos promoviendo la sentencia de muerte para los ganados enfermos o tratando de destruir la entrada financiera de nuestros lecheros; sino que estamos sugiriendo y continuaremos agitando en este sentido, hasta que estas condiciones malas sean remediadas.

Las autoridades deben decretar ciertas medidas y forzar su ejecución para que toda leche que sea vendida para el consumo deba ser cocida o algunas técnicas deben ser hechas para prevenir. También las autoridades veterinarias deben vigilar la salud y cuidado de las vacas, como también tener estricta vigilancia de la higienización del lugar donde son ordeñadas.

An Announcement

Under very trying financial pressure the pages of this newspaper were increased from eight to twelve pages in our issues of December 24 and January 7. It was our purpose to maintain this improvement in spite of the miserable treatment we are receiving from some of our agents, but unfortunately due to accumulated work our San Jose printers are unable to undertake more than the eight pages weekly. They advised further that if the twelve pages be insisted it will necessitate an increase in force and the cost quoted per thousand is far beyond the price of twenty five cents a copy and from which five cents is deducted for commission.

El domingo 15 de enero se inaugurará el Campeonato de Fútbol en esta Ciudad Para dar comienzo al acto de inauguración se celebrará a las once del día un desfile, en que tomarán parte los equipos inscritos con sus respectivas mádras y banderas, así como las altas Autoridades Civiles y Eclesiásticas. Dicho desfile dará comienzo al frente del edificio de la Gobernación para rematar en el Estadio de la ciudad en donde a continuación los deportistas prestarán el juramento tradicional. Inmediatamente dará comienzo a un campeonato relámpago de Segundas Divisiones y terminado éste el de Primeras Divisiones.

Por lo que se ve, dada la actividad que despliegan nuestros dirigentes de Foot-Ball y la calidad de los equipos que participarán, el campeonato que va a iniciarse será un éxito. Digo esto por cuanto los equipos de Primeras fuerzas fueron seleccionados el año pasado por medio de una eliminatoria que perseguía ofrecer a la afición que asiste a los encuentros una calidad de Foot Ball que más se ajuste a la categoría superior. Al mismo tiempo se ha logrado integrar varias Segundas que cuentan con magníficos jugadores jóvenes que serán en el futuro, después de haber consolidado sus condiciones físicas y deportivas, los que lograrán revivir el prestigio deportivo de antaño.

Aún después de haber realizado todo esto la Liga Limonense de Foot Ball sigue empeñada en mejorar la clase de Foot Ball y se esfuerza por mantener permanentemente una Selección para que defienda aquí y fuera de aquí los colores de la Provincia.

Los equipos que probablemente participen en este certamen son: Primeras Divisiones: Júpiter S. C., Colegio de Limón F. C., Barcelona S. C., Aduana F. C. Segundas Divisiones: Club Deportivo Marte; Colegio de Limón F. C.; Justicia F. C.; Vasco de Gama y Torino F. C.

Don Ramón Méndez entre nosotros

En la semana pasada tuvimos una cordial entrevista con el señor Ramón Méndez (entrenador oficial de Base-Ball en Costa Rica). Estuvo en nuestra ciudad como delegado especial del Comité Olímpico para entrevistarse con los miembros de la Liga Atlántica de Base Ball.

"Agradezco a usted por haberme visitado, pero antes que todo deseo expresar públicamente el cariño y verdadero espíritu deportivo demostrado a mi por los miembros de la Liga; cualquier información útil que pueda llevar al Comité Olímpico en San José es por medio de la cooperación dada "por estos caballeros".

El propósito de su misión es obtener el record y otros importantes detalles de los peloteros limonenses y de los cuales escogerá una pre-selección con mira hacia las Olimpiadas que se verificarán en Guatemala. Estos jugadores se unirán con los de la pre-selección joesfina para ir bajo entrenamiento efectiva bajo su instrucción y vigilancia en todo aspecto.

Para esto tendremos la oportuna visita de los peloteros de Nicaragua que vendrán a jugar una serie con el objeto de irse preparando para las justas de Guatemala. En continuación dijo el señor Méndez que el equipo que ingresa estará reforzado con lo menos seis jugadores de primera categoría, sin embargo, tiene la fé en el triunfo de sus muchachos.

Entre los puntos discutidos se señaló el caso de los jugadores que trabajan por las compañías para obtener permiso y averiguar su pago en la forma más conveniente para sus patrones durante el tiempo de su ausencia.

La Liga Atlántica nombró una comisión para presentar la solicitud resultata.

Los jugadores escogidos son los siguientes: Félix Cope, de Cubs Sport Club, Altimoto Maitland, Donny Hayling, José Garrón Salazar, Samuel Sherier, Albert Blske, del Júpiter, Alfonso Crawford, Clifford Edwards del Motive Power, Hubert Francis, Alfred Clarke, José Duncan del Bataan y Carlos Gayle Rojas de los Braves.

(Por Dr. Tu Yuen-Tan, En Alma de la China Moderna)

Los tres Principios del Pueblo encarnan tres inseparables y coordinativos principios de Nacionalidad, de Derechos y de Subsistencia. Estos tres Principios no pueden ser tomados separadamente porque ninguno de ellos tendría una interpretación exacta por sí solos y ninguno podría llevarse a su fin sin la correlación y la realización de los otros dos. Estos tres Principios del Pueblo constituyen el Principio. La interpretación española no es satisfactoria y por lo tanto los discípulos de Sun Yat-Sen usen a San Min Chu I en su forma original.

FROM OUR DESK

BY THE EDITOR

We had occasion a few days ago to see one or two pastures in which milch cows are kept; so in appearance brought to memory the scriptural narrative of the seven leany kinsmen in Pharaoh's dream.

It appears to our mind that the State Department of Health should become interested in the problem of the condition on a whole of the cows which are milked for human consumption.

It has been disclosed by scientific studies that undulant fever and other sickness among large populations have been resultant through ingestion of milk contaminated. The milk comes from the cows and surely if they are diseased or infected the milk they produce, quite naturally cannot be freed from infections elements.

When deep study is given to the inattention to many vital matters, we can well call ourselves a lucky people, saved as we are from widespread disease. It is well to speak of disease problems but our ultimate aim should be control and eradication. We know that cattle are reservoirs of infection and man gets the disease either by the ingestion of contaminated milk and dairy products or by contact with infected animals.

We are not promoting death upon sick cattle or trying to destroy the milk income of our milk producers, but one obvious method that we suggest and will continue to agitate that since it is not convenient to supply pasteurized milk, the proper authorities should decree and see to the accomplishment that ALL MILK which is sold for drinking purposes must be BOILED or some other techniques be done to make the milk supply safe and on the other hand the veterinary authorities should see to the health and care of the cows and the proper sanitary state of the place they are milked.

Ferris, Dean of St. Luke's Cathedral, Ancon, Canal Zone will be the Preacher.

His Lordship's time will be full with his attendance upon his official duties and in visiting with friends in the Zone and along the «Lines», but he will be staying at St. Mark's Rectory where he will be glad to welcome his many friends of the Parish at various times during his stay in Limon.

The Christmas Dole to the Needful Citizens

BAPTIST: On Saturday the 24th ultimo or in other words on Christmas Eve, the ladies of the Baptist Women's Federation extended the yearly charity of the Society to many very deserving poor.

BURIAL SCHEME SOCIETY: The Port Limon Branch No. 134 of the Jamaica Burial Scheme Society in carrying out its well laid down policy to remember the less fortunate members of our great human family on Christmas Day, found it pleasingly convenient to have taken care of more than one hundred and a half poor. The Society has also unhesitatingly contributed to the funds publicly collected for the Turrialba sufferers in the recent disaster.

METHODIST: The good will of the Methodist Church was exercised by the Women's League in distributing several packages in the schoolroom on Christmas Morn and appropriate dainties to the sick in the hospital.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH: We gained the information that the St. Mark's Church by the medium of the Mothers' Union richly prepared and nicely served several covers of luncheon to nearly one hundred needful citizen. The treat was effected on Monday the 26th of December.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS The Dorcas Society which operated as an auxiliary of the Church in its accustomed benevolence made and donated many articles of dress, and accompanied by cash were given to many persons in need of such aims.

ROMAN CATHOLISM: The members comprising the St. Vincent de Paul Society and are associated with the Limon Roman Catholic Diocese, not only gave on Christmas, but they maintain a daily charity to every deserving poor, regardless of colour, creed or race.

The Knights of St. John staged a concert and repeated same with the original wish to have provided an independent Dole for the poor, but this thought gave way finally to the turning over of the funds collected to the Cathedral, which, of course is being utilized in its charitable work.

Among The Baptists

The Baptist Church of this city in line with her custom of long years, to celebrate the annual Harvest Festival Services on the first Sunday in the month of January did so pleasingly from all visible viewpoints. The congregation and friends of the Church are said to have been in attendance brilliantly and plentifully. The gifts were of quantitative and qualitative order.

Listeners to the renditions of the youngsters at the afternoon Harvest Programme told us that they were the recipients of inspiration and intellectual nourishment.

The play given under the auspices of the Baptist Women's Federation in the Church on December 12, 1949 was represented by several of the casts of characters, strengthened by others of the district of Zent and held in the Chapel on Tuesday night the 3rd instant. We learn that it was successful in every way.

An Appeal Against Decree No. 8

In our last week's issue we released the information that the Government decreed that Costarricans or foreigners before permission is granted to leave the Republic will be requested to present a Certificate in proof of having paid all Government taxes to the Direct Tribulation.

By a press news we now learn that a legal talent in San Jose has effected an appeal before the Supreme Court of Justice, claiming that Decree No. 8 treating on the project of law is inconsistent with the disposition of the Constitution and its text which guarantees liberty to all Costarricans.

SAYING

(By Dr. Tu Yuen-Tan)

The three principles of the People embodies three interlocking and mutual conditioning principles of Nationhood, of Rights and of Livelihood. These three principles cannot be taken separately, because none of them will have a correct meaning and none can be fully realized without the correlation with, and the realization of the other two. This three: Principles of the People is the Principle. The English rendering is unsatisfactory, so disciples of Sun Tsen prefer to use San Min Chu I in the original form.

The principles of nationhood of Rights and of Livelihood are in one way or other analogous to Nationalism, Democracy and Socialism.

But San Min Chu I's refuse to be called Nationalists, democrats or socialists, because in reality they are not and in a sense they are all.

The Principle of Nationhood deals with the formation of nations, the influence of Nationalism in modern European history and China as a nation.

The Two Colones Silver Currency is not Acceptable

We understand that the two colones silver currency is no longer acceptable in commerce or even the Banks. Many persons unfortunately have several of these coins in their possession and do not know what will be their ultimate value to them.

It presents a very delicate situation. Quite true the Government has to protect its treasury against the currency counterfeited, and it is also true that those on whom the loss falls are not responsible for the circulation of the non-negotiable coin.

OPEN SUNDAY MORNINGS

WEST INDIES VERSUS INDIA

By ALVA RAMSAY

(Culled from the West Indian Sportsman)

The historic tour of India saw the emergence of West Indian Cricket as a batting power. For the first time it passed the stage of desperate reliance on the ability and skill of one or two batsmen of class: it definitely became a well-oiled, powerful batting machine with all its pistons firing. For the first time in West Indian cricket there was responsible batting from one to six; and the so-called all rounders and bowlers at Nos. 7, 8 and 9 were as good bats technically, at least, as could be found amongst Nos. 4, 5 and 6 of teams of the old days. For the first time West Indian selectors saw before them the ideal situation of being embarrassed by a wealth of batting strength that tended to handicap balanced selection.

But at the same time, the Indian tour revealed a falling off in that hostile and penetrating attack which in the old days had so often saved us from the humiliating depths to which the mediocrity of our batting threatened to plunge us. No longer did we have a bowler with the devil and pace of a Mardindale or a Constantine or possessed of the guileful speed of a Francis or a Griffiths. We had left our fastest bowler Hines Johnson behind his counterparts, Trim and Jones, performed well enough to show what superior speed might have effected.

We knew before our team left for India that our slow attack was not the very best. Cameron two years ago was a better bowler than he was last year because of almost a year's absence from first-class cricket. Again, we had left behind all our useful left-arm spinners, though in the light of what transpired in the Tests, their inclusion might not have brought much better results.

In four of the five tests, we outplayed India, completely demoralising their attack and getting them out for barely respectable totals in the first innings on nearly every occasion. I give here the true reasons for our failure to clinch the victory which seemed the due reward of our skill and superiority in three of the Tests we drew.

Mr. Stanley Street Is no Longer in the Flesh

There lies in the coffin the last remains of one who in life was Mr. Stanley Street. He was born at Bath in England. A few months ago he was there on leave of absence but there was no knowing that it was the last time he would have seen his great and charming England and that that it would have been the final embrace of his dear ones.

It has been said that man is a reed and the weakest reed in Nature; yea; a vapour or a drop of water can take his life. This is true and we know it, but having fondness in our very soul for our fellow traveller in life's journey, we are sad indeed when death comes. This gloom of sadness was widespread among people of every walk of life when the flash of death took Mr. Stanley Street on Monday the 9th of January 1950 in the local hospital.

About six years ago he came to Limon as an assistant to Mr. M. J. Thomas the then Superintendent of the Merchandise Department of the Costa Rica Banana Company and after Mr. Thomas' retirement, he was promoted to the Superintendency; that which he has filled with outstanding merit; in fact we have heard from the lips of almost all his subordinates that he was not only their Chief, but was their father. To the great tradition of the English he had the true Shekinah in him. He had endeared himself to the great as well as to the humblest. He was distinctly conscious that the principle within him which thinks, reasons, imagines, hopes and loves was not the result of his outward possession. He always gives the greetings of the day accompanied with human unbecom-

We listened attentively on two occasions on the platform of the local Salvation Army and we were convinced that there was an impulse in his soul for things divine.

The funeral services were conducted by the Reverend William L. Ziade in the St. Mark's Church and concluded at his vault, Major Thos. B. Lynch and comrades of the Army duly paid the Army's as well as their personal last respect to one who was a great friend of the cause they represent.

It appeared as if the question was asked; whom they bearest to the grave? The answer came all that is left of Mr. Stanley Street who was noble in mind and purpose, then came the demonstration of esteem and deep regard for his life's career, (though brief it was here) when hundreds of citizens crowded everwhere as the funeral train moved onward to the cemetery.

'The Atlantic' extends its most profound expression of sympathy to his distant brother, sisters and other relatives and may these lines reach their hands. May the soul of the departed rest in Peace.

FOREIGN

One of the questions agitating the major powers today is that of whether to recognize officially the Communist Government of China or not. It is said in the press that Britain and the United States differ on the subject with the former for recognition and the other preferring to wait. Russia, has of course rushed to recognize the new regime, with her satellites following suit.

According to the present position of China two thirds of the Chinese Empire is under Communist domination and there does not appear to be any effective force against them sufficient to check their onward march. The Nationalists still claim control over one-third of China with a population of something like 112,000,000. We gather that the United States have written off Chiang Kai-shek and his armies as of little further use in stemming the tide of communism. But when all is said and done the great factor unconsidered by the nations in any appraisal of the situation in China is that of God. The Evangelical Christian in its Christmas Number states.

«It is He who has permitted the advance of communism, so far, it is He in the end who will bring about its destruction. For if there is one thing certain it is that Communism, either in Russia, China, or elsewhere, will pass away in a vortex of bloodshed and destruction, since it is ranged not against capitalism or the «decadent democracies» but against God Himself. Like Pharaoh of old it had been raised up on the stage of time «that I might show my power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout the earth». We may not know how but in some inscrutable way even this scourge of mankind will be made to minister to the plan and purpose of God, who maketh even the wrath of man to praise Him. The nations may or may not recognize these godless governments, but in the end it is God who will reject them».

Mr. William Morrison Did a Scotland Yard Job

Ten years old Maria Ester Montoya was sent to the Limon market to buy beef for her guardian. On her return she was met by a man who answers to the name of Orlando. This native told the child that he had word from her mistress that she is to accompany him to his farm for some fresh eggs. In the girl's own report she refused at first, but he insisted that the orders came from her mistress and not wanting to be charged for disobedience she followed the man, who no sooner he was out of the city limit is said to have tied her hands and kept dragging her.

Mr. William Morrison of this city proved to be a real «G man». According to his declaration he was on his way to his farm along a lonesome trail a few miles beyond the cemetery when he saw the strange conduct of this man by dragging the child who was crying bitterly. At first Mr. Morrison thought the scene was that of father conducting an unruly child, but the pleading of the girls rose suspicion, and in view of which he disguised himself to see what it all meant. The villain started his criminal assault, Mr. Morrison said he quickly armed himself with some large stones as weapon of defence, then he pounced upon the man who had the child's mouth stuffed up with grass after his handkerchief trick failed. The beast in human form was apprehended by Mr. Morrison who knows how, being an ex-serve man of the Jamaica Constabulary, brought him to the local police headquarters where he is now repenting, if there is a spark of humanity in him.

The father of the girl is loud in his praise to Mr. Morrison who saved his child from the lair of Orlando. The little girl is said to be bruised and cut at several parts of her body.

Northern Railway Employees' Cooperation Stands in Good Form

In this age when everything in general and moroso in the importation or local purchasing of merchandise for commerce, made so as resultant from the unrest of labour almost everywhere and by which manufacturers and producers are forced to raise the wages of those engaged in production, in spite of such trying state of affairs, it is highly gratifying to learn that the management of the Northern Railway Employees' Commissary found it possible to have declared the six percent interest or dividend on each fifty colonies share. We understand that the path was not very smooth when the present manager took over the Cooperation, therefore, he has worked wonders for the first year's life of the business.

The effort of Mr. J. Bowden and his associates should, without doubt earn praise and should also serve to stimulate the minds of the shareholders to buy more shares; more shares means bigger business; bigger business means greater dividends.

Happy Birthday Greetings to Mrs. Hilda Lewis

In the life of our former news organ its columns have been graced with report of the annual celebrations at the family residence. On this occasion we publish with equal compliment as those days past, the happy birthday greetings to her and wish for her many more years in this life.

Mrs. Lewis is a faithful and lively member of the Seventh Day Adventists Denomination and is associated with the city Temple.

A Right Hearty Welcome

We extended a right hearty welcome to Mr. O'Mara and do hope the climatic and other unaccustomed conditions will be agreeable to him and by which his stay will be comfortable and pleasant.
