

ES EXAGERADA LA NOTICIA DE DIARIO DE COSTA RICA SOBRE LA PLAGA DE LORAS QUE AZOTA LA REGION ATLANTICA

El propósito de una noticia aparecida en la edición del Diario de Costa Rica el martes último sobre una plaga de loros que está destruyendo los cacahates de la zona atlántica, tuvimos la oportunidad de conversar con varios técnicos agrícolas, especialmente con algunos que visitaron los lugares indicados y nos manifestaron que la noticia es exagerada.

Es cierto que algunas loras destruyeron unas pocas mazacas de cacao, pero no en cantidad apreciable. Es también exagerada la noticia de que cada uno de esos animales puede comerse entre tres y cuatro hectáreas de cacao. Quien le dio la noticia al periódico citadizo tuvo de sorprenderle leída una noticia de sorprenderle la credulidad del reportero.

Precedente de los Estados Unidos ha llegado a Costa Rica el técnico norteamericano señor Charles J. Maki, agrónomo, a Ernesta de Irujo, que tiene a su cargo la Estación Experimental de Hule en Turrialba. Se trata así de desarrollar, en varias selecciones en el ramo y especialmente probar los resultados de la variedad "Hevea Boliviana", la que se considera como una de las que más resistencia ofrecen a las enfermedades que suelen atacar los cultivos huleños.

El agrónomo señor Maki estuvo por tres años realizando trabajos en la producción de hule de la zona sudoccidental del Amazonas, en Brasil con el Rubber Development Corporation; y en años anteriores trabajó, en las mismas actividades, en Libreville, Africa Occidental, al mismo tiempo que ha trabajado por mucho tiempo con el Servicio Forestal de los Estados Unidos en Michigan, Minnesota y Ohio.

Notas Editoriales DOS NUEVAS ESCUELAS

El señor Secretario de Educación Pública acaba de crear dos nuevas escuelas para el Cantón Central de Limón. Una en la Bomba y otra en Bonifacio. Ambos caseríos tienen población suficiente para que se abran los planteles citados.

El hecho, que no parece de una gran importancia, tiene significación especial para esta zona, porque marca un deseo de mejoramiento cultural y un principio de arraigo en esa zona. La iniciativa de esas escuelas partió de los vecinos del Valle de la Estrella. Fueron ellos quienes se constituyeron en patronato, y ellos quienes ofrecieron comodidades y local a las maestras que nombrara el Gobierno.

A don Rafael de la Peña y a don Asís Esna se le da la Escuela de Bonifacio que funcionará en un local cedido gratuitamente por don Ernesto Castro. A los municipios don Joaquín Hernández y don Federico Picado corresponde la iniciativa de la escuela para la Bomba que trabajará en un local del Municipio.

Los dos escuelas permitirán a infinidad de finqueros de esos lugares mandar sus hijos a la escuela y afincarse en las parcelas que trabajan con propósito de permanencia definitiva, que significa ampliación de cultivos, mejoramiento de viviendas, incremento de producción y tantas otras cosas que van con el tiempo desollando el esfuerzo y el cariño a la tierra.

Ojalá que ese ejemplo se extienda en otros lugares ahora completamente abandonados en que la vida es inestable como de nómada.

LA ESTACION TRANSMISORA RADIO CASINO inaugura un nuevo programa de Charlas Infantiles a cargo de la señorita Hada Alegria

El lunes pasado se inauguró en la Estación Radiodifusora Radio Casino un programa de Charlas Infantiles a cargo de la señorita Hada Alegria, pseudónimo con que se oculta una señorita de edad.

El programa se compone de cuentos para niños pequeños y es casi una extensión del Kinder Garden. El estilo que obtuvo fue muy satisfactorio y merece nuestras felicitaciones. Más que lo que pudiéramos decir nosotros creemos que la señorita Hada Alegria condensa el propósito que se persigue y es por esto que publicamos y continuaremos publicando, deseando a su autor un completo éxito en su nueva labor pedagógica.

Señores padres de familia y ya desahucados de la estación disuasoria RADIO CASINO: Hada, desde esta simpática radiodifusora ¡joven a quien la misma estación ha querido ponerle el nombre de HADA ALEGRIA. Como una prolongación de la prescuela, que RADIO CASINO, que yo, presenciosos de nada, lleve a los hogares, preferentemente, a los limonenses, un fallo de cosas y entretenimientos a los niños. PARTICIPACION DE COSTA RICA A LA EXPO. FUE CANCELADA POR LA MUNICIPALIDAD LA PATENTE DE LICORES DE LA ESPERANZA POR ENCONTRARSE EN ZONA DE TRABAJO

Hace algunos semanas la Corporación Municipal acordó sacar a remate la patente de licores correspondiente a La Esperanza.

El jefe de la Policía Municipal, don Juan José de la Cruz, se opuso a que se concediera la patente de licores en esa lugar sino en un campamento denominado Zebú que es claramente una zona de trabajo donde se acuerda con el Código de Trabajo es absolutamente prohibido el establecimiento de puestos de licores.

En vista de las anteriores razones la Corporación Municipal en su última sesión acordó cancelar la referida patente de acuerdo con la ley.

COSTA RICA a la CABEZA DEL CAMPEONATO CENTROAMERICANO DE FUTBOL

Con verdadero entusiasmo se está desarrollando en la capital de la República, el campeonato Centroamericano de Fútbol, organizado por el Comité Olímpico. En este certamen han tomado parte los siguientes países: Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panamá y Costa Rica. Todos estos cuadros in-tegrados con los mejores jugadores. Hasta el momento el mejor equipo que hemos visto actuar ha sido el de Guatemala, integrado por elementos de gran valor. El mejor jugador de este cuadro, es el famoso Feres Castellanos. A este magnífico equipo le correspondió enfrentarse el domingo último con la poderosa oncenca salvadoreña "Goal quieper".

En la demás nos parece bueno.

El martes se llevó a cabo triunfando los guatemaltecos por un score de 3 tantos por uno. Al equipo panameño lo acompaña el famoso portero de fama, "Empanado" Arozema. Este nos demostró lo mucho que vale en el campo: de un apañe seguro, buena colocación, en fin retiene todas las cualidades de un futbolista. Sinceramente felicitamos al Comité Organizador de este Tercer Campeonato Centroamericano de Fútbol y lamentamos el encuentro en entre los equipos de Panamá y Costa Rica.

37 personas esta procesando Franco en Corte Marcia.-

LONDRES, 27 UP.—Refiriéndose a la precaria situación política y las disensiones en España, el Times de Londres publica el siguiente comentario.

Mientras por un lado el General Franco sigue dando toda clase de publicidad a las demostraciones de aprobación que ha recibido en su visita a diferentes países, por otro lado se está jugando el papel de hombre fuerte en España. Ha destituido a sus Cortes a seis miembros, incluyendo al Duque de Alba, quien ha confesado su adherencia a la monarquía, y al mismo tiempo ha exiliado a las Islas Canarias al vocero del pretendiente, don Juan. Simultáneamente el General Franco está presionando sobre los izquierdistas y está procesando en corte marcial a 37 personas de las cuales dos son mujeres y no por actos de terrorismo, la acusación es fúndada, sino por haber organizado un partido político clandestino.

No cabe duda de que hay algún entusiasmo en España, pues así lo comprueba la carta enviada a Don Juan por un grupo de líderes monárquicos, pero en cuanto a la opinión pública en España se refiere no hay señal alguna de que exista algún compromiso serio con los monarquistas. EL CRISTO DE LAS CUMBRES

Por: JOSE GUILLERMO LOPEZ SALAZAR

Allá lejos las nubes toman sus trajes estivales y en su orgullo de vivos matices, lentamente, las luces se entregan en el regazo de la noche. Un lucero vesperino dilata hacia el confin, y en las colinas y los cerros y en la agreste serranía, asemeja en sus mil vueltas, una gran sierpe terrosa. Una que otra nube de polvo levantada por el soplo del terral, se ve aquí y allá, como si el camino se confundiera en su polvo. Vagamente iluminada por un live destello, la serranía extiende su lomo de sinuosa forma para confundirse, más allá de lo visible, con el celeste eterno...

Con ese fin se han dirigido los directores de escuelas al ingeniero don Alberico Angelini pidiéndole su valiosa cooperación en el sentido de que se haga cargo de la dirección de los trabajos Sabemos que tales gestiones no han podido ser resueltas favorablemente, por cuanto el señor Angelini tiene a su cargo otros departamentos que no le permiten desarrollar otras actividades que no sean las asignadas por la Secretaría de Agricultura e Industrias.

empinada cuesta, se destaca una cruz de madera, formada por vigas recias como los árboles del bosque. Un Cristo labrado en madera con la mirada hacia el poniente parece dar al ambiente suave aroma de santidad.

Y, allí están ese Cristo y esa Cruz, Soberano y Majestuoso, contemplando el paisaje montañoso, hierática y enhiesta sobre los valles y los montes.

Y allí están, contemplando friamente, la constante sucesión de auroras y de ocasos. Han visto el paso de lentas caravanas, de carretas y labriegos, a lo lejos. En su base, trepa silenciosa alguna que otra florcilla, al amparo de su sombra. La cima del monte en el cual se hallan es una pequeña planicie desértica a causa del viento pero más allá, al declinar de nuevo el lomo perdido, el desped cubre una vasta extensión y a lo lejos, al livido destello del resplásculo, como respojo flotante se destaca el lechado de una rústica casita... y más allá, en caprichosa hondonada, corre bullanguera, a través de juncos y cascadas, lanzando al aire su canción eterna, el arroyo...

Silencio profundo invade este místico lugar. Silencio de campo santo. Todo recogimiento, todo tranquilo, como las gigantes moles terrosas y los árboles y los seres vivientes hubiesen en trado en un sueño profundo. Sólo de vez en cuando la brisa agita las copas de los árboles cercanos como si la fronda respondiese a su llamado.

El velo de las sombras se desgarró ante la viva lumbre de plenilunio. Es entonces cuando la luna escribe en el cielo un poema romántico. Se diría que la naturaleza entera se elezara ante tanta belleza.

¡Qué de encontradas; emocionantes! ¡Qué fluir y refluir de antagónicas ideas! El Cristo sigue allí y al contemplarlo, el alma siente aliento de extraña emoción. Mas, el Supremo Artífice enseña su obra portentosa de grandeza, de indecible belleza; y el alma muda, cautivada y llevada hasta el éxtasis sublimina musita suavemente, con temor de romper el silencio: "Padre Nuestro, que estás en los Cielos"

TOME KOLA GARRON

LA MARINA MERCANTE BRITANICA EN EL COMERCIO MUNDIAL

Por ser una isla, era natural que en Gran Bretaña surgiera una raza de audaces navegantes. Durante siglos, el mar ha atraído a los hombres con espíritu de aventura y descubrimiento, y la osadía y el instinto marítimo de los británicos, sirvieron para trazar y establecer muchas de las rutas comerciales que surcan los océanos del mundo.

Los primeros buques oceánicos británicos se basaban sobre el modelo Viking, de construcción muy fuerte pero pesada. Para fines del siglo XII, sin embargo, este tipo había sido superado por otro enteramente distinto, a captado de las construcciones venecianas, pues Venecia era en aquella época la primera nación marítima del mundo.

Este nuevo modelo de buques tenía líneas amplias y "panzudas" con buena capacidad para el transporte de carga.

Su gran resistencia a las inclemencias del tiempo, superior a la de cualquier otro tipo conocido anteriormente en la Europa occidental, permitió a los británicos comerciar, no solamente con los países situados del otro lado del Canal de la Mancha y del mar del Norte, sino también con cualquiera de las partes del mundo entonces conocidos.

Desde esa fecha, los constructores navales británicos concentraron sus esfuerzos en el perfeccionamiento de nuevos tipos de buques, todos ellos construidos especialmente para satisfacer los requerimientos de un comercio siempre creciente. A comienzos del siglo XIX, la mayoría de los buques británicos para el servicio de ultramar pertenecían a dos tipos especializados: el carguero de las Indias Orientales y el carguero libre. El carguero de las Indias Orientales era el mejor de su tiempo, y muy bien puede ser considerado como el precursor de los vapores modernos.

En 1815, al terminar las Guerras Napoleónicas, Gran Bretaña era dueña del comercio del mundo, y su flota mercante se componía de 25,000 buques, que sumaban unos dos millones y medio de toneladas.

En realidad, Gran Bretaña no tuvo ninguna competencia seria hasta mediados del siglo XIX. Tal competencia sirvió de estímulo a los constructores navales británicos para que redoblaran sus esfuerzos. Sus astilleros botaron tipos de barco cada vez mejores, y uno de los resultados fue la aparición de los famosos "Clipper". Era un tipo de barco que no admitía parangón por su velocidad, economía de trabajo y solidez de construcción, y desempeñó un importante papel en el desarrollo del comercio del té de China y las lanas de Australia.

En esta misma época comenzaron a construirse los primeros buques de hierro y se comenzó a utilizar el vapor como fuerza propulsora. Pero la adopción del vapor fue un proceso muy lento, y la importancia de los buques de vela no comenzó a declinar hasta alrededor de 1880.

A su vez, el acero inició la suplantación del hierro hacia 1860, y para fines del siglo ya no se construía ningún barco de hierro. Con el advenimiento del acero y el vapor, el tamaño y la velocidad de los buques fueron aumentando considerablemente. En 1840 se construyó el "Britannia", de 1154 toneladas, y en 1855 botó el "Persia", de 3600 toneladas brutas. A fines de siglo, el mayor buque del mundo era el "Oceanic", de 17,275 toneladas. En 1903 se colocaron las quillas del "Lusitania" y el "Mauretania" de 32,000 toneladas cada uno. El tamaño de los buques continuó aumentando, hasta que en 1934 fue botado el "Queen Mary", de unas 81,000 toneladas, al que en 1938 siguió el "Queen Elizabeth", de un tonelaje aún mayor.

Velocidad y tamaño progresaron al unísono. La velocidad del "Britannia" era de 8 1/2 nudos en 1840, y para fines de siglo se construyeron buques capaces de desarrollar 23 nudos. En 1936 el "Queen Mary" cruzó el Atlántico a una velocidad media de 30,83 nudos.

La construcción de buques de carga siguió un camino igualmente ascendente. Hace menos de un siglo todos los buques de carga navegaban a vela, por creerse generalmente que no era posible transportar a vapor artículos de lieados sin que corrieran el riesgo de deteriorarse. Hoy en día, el buque mercante británico representa el máximo de capacidad combinado con el mínimo de costo, peso y gastos de explotación. Entre los buques de carga se destacaron los buques frigoríficos y los buques tanques. La Marina Mercante británica es más rica en los primeros que la de cualquier otro país. — Con respecto a los últimos, el Lloyd's Register de 1926 contenía los nombres de 1156 buques-tanque de vapor y motor, con un tonelaje conjunto de 5,664,786 toneladas.

Las construcciones navales británicas continúan progresando. El perfeccionamiento de la navegación a motor (es decir, de buques que no quemaban combustible para elevar la presión del vapor, sino que están dotados de motores de combustión interna de aceite pesado Diesel o de otro tipo similar) ha sido muy rápido desde el año 1918. Los motores británicos en el Reino Unido representan el 45 por ciento del total de buques mercantes construidos durante el año 1938.

El moderno buque de pasajeros británico reúne el más alto grado de eficiencia y ofrece las mismas comodidades que los hoteles más lujosos. No se ha desestimado nada que pueda contribuir a la comodidad del pasajero. Ahora que la guerra ha terminado, los trasatlánticos y los buques mercantes británicos reanudarán pronto sus tareas habituales, y repararán barcos de lujo en los mismos lugares en que dormían los soldados. Los constructores revisarán también los motores del buque, probando las palas de sus turbinas y los 1400 metros de tuberías con ductoras de petróleo desde los depósitos hasta los hornos, así como los muchos kilómetros de cables eléctricos.

LOS DOLORES DE CINTURA DESAPARECEN cuando los riñones vuelven a la normalidad

Si usted padece frecuentes dolores de cintura, es muy probable que sus riñones no funcionan bien. Entre los órganos más atareados del organismo, están los riñones. Actúan como filtros, encargados de eliminar de la sangre las impurezas y venenos. Los riñones débiles e inactivos no pueden realizar esta tarea en debida forma. Mientras no sean activados usted no podrá aliviar sus dolores serios o agudos.

He aquí por que las Píldoras De Witt para los Riñones y la Vejiga son elaboradas especialmente para que obtengan directamente sobre los riñones. Por este motivo alivian los dolores de cintura desde la primera dosis. Dentro de las 24 horas de haber empezado a tomarlas, la orina se torna amarilla. Esto demuestra que el excelente antiseptico que contienen las Píldoras De Witt ejerce acción en la propia raíz del mal: en los riñones.

Tan pronto como llegan a los riñones, los ingredientes medicinales de las Píldoras De Witt ejercen su acción benéfica, aliviando la inflamación, descomponiendo y restableciendo el buen funcionamiento de dichos órganos. Al mismo tiempo,

BEAUTIFUL MISS OLGA LEON A CHARMING BRIDE

Like a violet in life's garden the Don Alejandro León's family have grown in splendor and the fragrance from their high cultural sphere, friendliness and deep human ethics, have been widely spread both in this province and elsewhere.

The family on a united whole has won the affection of this community; the children are reared and trained under an atmosphere which do not entertain skin or racial or any other discrimination. At school — in their business place as well as on the field of sports the Leóns have mingled harmoniously with their team-mates.

The community's endearment was well earned by Miss Olga, therefore, it brought no surprise when on Wednesday, long in advance of the fallen shades of evening the city cathedral had its greatest congregation in waiting to witness the marriage of this most charming member of the family to Mr. Alfonso Yunis Mora who is also a Limonense of deep admiration and esteem. Judging by the great multitude, one would consider that the Bride would become bewildered, but she was not a bit — under the escort of her loving father, she paced with lively footsteps and her characteristic smiles gave additional charm while the choirsters led by the organ and violin rendered the "Here comes the bride" — Yes she was exquisitely gowned in white; — a figure of genuine princess form. Her trossaues rised ad admiration and praise worthy comments. Following in her train was the Groom, Don Alfonso accompanied by his dearly beloved mother, Doña Rosa Mora de Yunis.

Mr. Albert Yunis was the Bestman and Miss Lovelia León the bride's sister as Chief Bridesmaid. The maid of honour being the Misses Elbe Alan, Mercedes Asti, Aura Amador, Virginia Guz (Continued on page 8) military authorities. The mercy was that the German enemy did so unadvised. A year later, on November 20th, 1917, at Cambrai, the tank justified the faith of all its disciples. On that day British-General Hugh Elles, commanding the Tank Corps led nearly 400 of his fighting crews in direct assault against the Hindenburg Line. From the turret of his own tank, Hilda, heading the centre division, fluted the brown, red and green colours of the newly-created Tank Corps, the foundation of the tank soldiers' motto, "Through mud and blood, to the green fields beyond." The tanks of Cambrai smashed through a defence zone five miles deep. Between dawn and dusk they captured 9,000 prisoners, and a hundred guns. It was the pre-birth of the blitzkrieg. So astonishing was the tank success on that they that the infantry were served in the rear to exploit the break-through failed to keep pace with the battle, and forfeited a grand opportunity of rolling up the entire German line. Another year passed, and once more the chance was offered. At Amiens on August 8th, 1918, British tanks shattered the front and the heart itself of the enemy in what Ludendorff described as the "Black Day of the German Army." That night the victorious British counted 16,000 prisoners and two hundred German guns, and the Kaiser told a confidant, "We must sue for peace."

The tank had crashed into its own. Five thousand tanks and then ten thousand tractor-cars were ordered for the next year's offensive, and if the enemy had not suddenly collapsed on November 11th, 1918, British tanks would have arrived in Berlin in May, 1919, in exactly the same style that German tanks reached Paris 21 years later.

COLONEL JOSE QUESADA IS TO LEAVE US SOON

Limón has been struck a terrible blow in its musical life in the expected departure of Colonel José Quesada from the directorship of the Municipal Band of this city. His labours have been without doubt herculean in having given us so high a type of musicians; men whose economical condition have forced them to hustle in other sphere of bread-life which automatically rob them of that essential entire material and constant devotion to the high calling which they represent. Then, on the other hand, the aged old instruments add their difficulties, we are told.

In spite of these set-backs the Colonel has brought Limón's Band to the front; ranking par-excellence.

We do not treat with the Director as only a reader of music but greater for his talent on musical compositions.

If Limonenses are grateful they will always remember him—a man of humanity, free of pomp and grandeur. We wish for Colonel Quesada every prosperity in whatever new field of life he may be engaged.

We also thank those citizens and others who have given the rightful thought in having so wonderfully recommended Don Jorge Bonilla, the immediate Assistant to his great Master. There is every confidence that Don Bonilla will endeavour to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor. We sound the same high notes in favour of Don Trino Jiménez who is to resume the role of Assistant that which he had previously creditably served. These two new leaders are well known by the bandmen and there is no doubt in our mind that they will pull harmoniously together.

IN THE VARGAS PARK

The concert given by the Municipal Band under the direction of Colonel José Quesada in the Park Vargas on the night of Saturday, eight days ago was a well triumph; a triumph which is the child of a competent music master and an inspired director.

Our humble taste in the fine profession is nothing in comparison to the high degree of praise that was expressed by a large number of front line musical talents; persons whose musical sense we dare not question. "What a pity Limón will soon be chastised by the leaving of such a musical genius as Colonel José Quesada" said a high ranking authority and we say so too. The setting of the musical numbers and instrumental interpretations were marvellous; but our amazement ascended the dizzy height when the thirteen year old age boy, Rafael Angel Hidalgo played efficiently the Carro; accompanied by professor or Claudio Jiménez with his flute in the rendition of the serenade by Titi. By the performance of this "TOT" there is evidence that Colonel Quesada has not only directed the Limón Band to the peak of success but he has made a musician almost out of the cradle.

The programme was entirely melodious and with the Bolero "CIELO LIMONENSE" a composition by Director Colonel José Quesada ranging in the Superb grade.

WAR IN THE SAND

'TANKS IN THE DESERT,' said General von Ravenstein, when we captured him, "make a tactician's paradise and a quartermaster's hell". This briefly and accurately sums up the matter.

The Western Desert; a triangle five times the size of Britain, a land of sand and scrub and stone; a desolation without water or trees, where the wind lashes the dust of the dead earth in to a blizzard that howls and drives of 70 hours; where no onday is and one night an ice-box; a manoeuvre area fifteen hundred miles across, or as far as from Calais to Kiev. Such was the chosen place where the soldiers of the Royal Armoured Corps and their comrades of all arms and services gave the proud Axis armies the thrashing of their lives, the first of many thrashings.

It was the opinion of Napoleon that desert was the most formidable of all natural barriers. Mountains come second, he said, and rivers a poor third. Napoleon crossed the Alps to victory at Marengo, but the Egyptian Desert was the pathway to his first defeat. The British fought him by Suez Isthmus and beat him there 140 years ago, saving the Empire. In 1940 the Western Desert again guarded the approach to Suez, whose canal now formed the imperial sea

In the election of Don Alfredo as Secretary we share a feeling of much satisfaction and gratefulness for those who elected him and we have the assurance that through his office stimulus will be given to our Limón Auxiliary Committee.

But with the coming of peace, Colonial problems press with new urgency on the present occupant of that chair in which a bewildering succession of Secretaries of State have sat during recent years. Some years before the war the then Secretary of State complained (with a wealth of picturesque embellish-

IN THE BASKET OF THE WEEK

The happiness of a rich man ought not to consist in the good things that he possesses, but in the use he can make of them. Be not proud of riches, but a friend of them; Less they be a silver bar to cross the way to happiness. One must answer for riches for it cannot answer for the rich.

MANY ARE WITHHOUT A FLAG

HERE are many scriptural injunctions that are left on the sands of time for us to follow in our individual as well as political life; — in fact all human endeavours.

We are desirous at this writing to quote that of our Blessed Master when nailed to the Cross and pierced by sinful men, yet in forgiveness and tenderness of heart. He appealed to His Father, saying, — "Father forgive them for they know not what they do".

On the surface we might say that the Romans were quite comprehensive of what they were doing; they knew that they had bruised-wounded and scourged Christ but there was a higher and more genuine conception that was not comprehended at that moment.

Our preface in reference to that marvellous lesson of forgiveness, is to petition the National Congress to exercise that Christ-like virtue in behalf of the several thousand persons born in the territories of the Republic of alien parentage. Quite true they have not heeded the warning issued by the Government that the period for those reaching twenty two years and upward in order to become legitimate nationals through the Constitutional privilege they should have done so not later than the 26th of August 1945. This negligence is now resultant with wailing and lashing of the mind.

On the other hand we know of cases that were submitted much in advance of that date of expiration, but due to the last minute rush it was impossible to secure; in the first place the Certificates of births from the Register General Office in San José; due principally to the fact that many of the applicants were not able to furnish intelligent data as regard their birth which would facilitate the Registrar to issue the Certificates. This, in many cases is traceable to the parents as well as to the oldtype representatives in the rural districts. The deserving importance was not given in those earlier days.

Costa Rica's area of 23,000 square miles can adequately take care of twice its present legitimate daughters and sons and we believe that none born in the territories should be excluded.

Those without the legal status of any country are in a tight corner; they cannot travel beyond the UVITA wharf; if such journey is to be effected outside of the "RAT PASSAGE".

We appeal to the Chamber of Deputies to grant another extension; one over a more lengthy period.

For which he was famed, but which here is omitted that the Colonial Empire gave him a new headache every morning. To understand what head-pounding problems today await his successor, let us go down to Downing Street and into the great room reserved for the Secretary of State, with Joe Chamberlain's maps at one end, and at the other, a portrait of George Washington, tribute to the sardonic humour of a long dead official in the Office of Works. Or the big table-top will find a bundle of files, each of them marked with what ominous red tab which means "immediation".

Today the file on the top will be labelled "Palestine" — there has hardly been any day in the last twenty years when the top file has not borne that title, but in the next few weeks a momentous decision must be taken on the future of the distressed and distressing country, and the penalties of error will be great. Before the election, the Socialist Party proposed a solution, unqualified and uncompromising, which had more regard to voting strength in this country than to justice and reality in the Middle East. Since the election, the Socialist Government has asked for time to think, and though it might have been better if he had thought before they spoke, it is at least some thing that, having spoken, they should now think.

Next will be a file labelled "demobilization", the resettlement of hundreds of thousands of men who have served in the Forces overseas, have seen new countries and new continents, have lived new lives and learned new lessons. Rightly handled, these men can be, in every village and town, the centre of vigorous and progressive life-wrongly handled, they will be everywhere the focus of purpose.

YEAR XI — Limón, C. R., 2nd. March 1946 — Nº 503

A New Era for the Colonies

By The Rt. Hon. Oliver Stanley, M.P.

The reoccupation of Malaya and Hong Kong brings to us a close the War chapter of our Colonial history. Its high lights are well known, the bravery and skill of Colonial troops in Abyssinia and Burma, the heroic stoicism of Malta under bombardment, the Fijian corporal winning the V. C. by the sacrifice of his own life for the safety of his comrades, while the sufferings of those under Japanese occupation, hitherto little more than guessed at, are now being fully revealed.

Less is known here of the privations and the labours borne to a greater or less degree in all Colonies; the rice-esters of Ceylon and Mauritius deprived of their traditional diet and offered in exchange the white flour which to us was an unobtainable luxury, and to them an unpalatable and unsatisfying makeshift; the grave shortage of consumer goods throughout Africa which has left the natives with little of that which normally is their sole incentive to labour; the U-boat successes in the Caribbean which at one time threatened the West Indian islands not merely with privations, but with famine.

Nor should we fail to pay tribute to the men of the Colonial Service, deprived of the normal opportunities for leave — those periods which in a tropical climate are not so much recreational luxuries as physiological necessities — cut off in some cases for seven or eight years from their wives and families, increasingly short-handed as normal wastage created vacancies which to fill, incessantly burdened with fresh activities, as wartime stringencies necessitated new and unfamiliar extensions of Government activity and Government control. Yet they carried on loyally, efficiently, uncomplainingly, though nehaps sometimes envying the lot of their more fortunate colleagues who had been allowed to join the Services. Without their devoted labours the structure of Colonial administration which might have been irretrievably damaged and the war potential of the United Nations grievously impaired.

But these war years, full as they have been of dangers and difficulties, have not been without their brighter side. In the dark days of 1940, when the survival of the British Empire and even the integrity of our own shores were matters of faith rather than certainty, Parliament passed a Colonial Welfare Development Act, and for the first time gave some solid foundation on which those anxious for Colonial development could build. In the bright days of 1945, when the German collapse was a matter of weeks, if not days, Parliament not only reaffirmed its intentions but granted increased scope and mag-bridge between the western and the eastern oceans.

By 1940 armies no longer marched at the foot pace of 10 miles a day. Sixty or seventy miles between dawn and dusk was an easy stride for the panzers. Once Field Marshal Rommel halted for three months with a great army within a summer's day of Cairo.

The armies wheeled and circled about the illimitable Desert as formerly they had manoeuvred within a few close fields. But the Desert will had nothing to credit.

It takes many thousand gallons of petrol to harnen an armoured division a hundred miles. This means a fleet of supply trucks, and for every further hundred miles that you travel you need a proportionate increase to keep the supply chain rolling. In the great battles of the Western Desert, the British or the Axis armies were sometimes a thousand miles from their main port bases, almost always five hundred miles. The reader can work out for him self the quartermaster's problem. The Royal Army Service Corps, in fact, worked it out, and solved it brilliantly.

After those first few months when General Wavell led only 30,000 Empire troops against 300,000 Italians, the strength rose eventually to 150,000 on the Allied side.— They required as a fair minimum one gallon of water per head per day, though often the soldiers managed with far less. Tanks had to be maintained and repaired, and the guns had to be fed.

Along the coast there are some roads, and a railway goes part of the way, from Alexandria to Mersa Matruf. South of this belt there are mostly tracks; once made, these tracks last for many years and they lead in all directions, so that you can not know where any one will take you. Traffic must steer by the stars, or by the sun, or the compass. If it travels by night, it must go without lights, in darkness that the world has long since agreed to call Egyptian.

One Christmas Eve a Supply officer drove off from a tank unit to a Desert dump seven miles away to bring in some supplies. He left at mid-day, and when he got there he had to wait for the Supply truck to come up. It never came. He arrived back at his unit twelve hours later — without the supplies. They said, "It tooka long, time didn't it?" He replied, "It was seven miles there, and 120 miles back". A slight variation of his compass had left him utterly lost.

 less disillusionment and sultry discontent.

There will be a bulky bundle on Malaya. Here we have not only to restore the high standard of social services which gave the lie to the charge of exploitation but we have to refashion a political machine too cumbersome to work with speed to remote to give authority or uniformity, and recally to consider to evoke the loyalty of the Chinese and Indian communities who together comprise the majority of the inhabitants of Malaya.

Ceylon and its new constitution, Malta and self-government, the closer integration of the East African territories, post-war training and recruitment of the Colonial Service—all crowd upon us. But behind all these specific questions lies the general problem, how to fulfill the fundamental purposes of our Colonial administrations. We are pledged to help forty separate territories along the road to self-government, and to raise their economic resources and to raise their social standards. Despite the war we have made steady progress in the last few years, but with the peace the Colonies will expect a quickening of the tempo and an increase of achievement.

Mr. Hall, the new Secretary of State, will have certain advantages; he will find an increased interest in this country, a greater willingness to help in distance, all the money, will not of themselves solve the problems which are before him: they will also require statesmanship of the highest order.

Parliament and more money than any Secretary of State has ever had at his disposal before. But all the goodwill, all the attention of the new Secretary of State.

We talk about self-government; but how, for instance, can you run Democracy in bi-national territories, where the doctrine of "one man, one vote", gives to a racial majority perpetual domination over other communities alien to it in race, religion, custom and language?

We talk about economic development; but how do you develop the economic standards of islands with no mineral resources exhausted soil and great increasing over-population? We talk about raising social standards; but how can you do that by Government activities alone unless the more fortunate members of the community are prepared to give that voluntary service which in this country is a universal and age-long tradition, but is in many Colonies a new and rare exception?

Party differences and party passions need not be, and, of recent years have not been, involved. Policy, provided it is sympathetic and realistic, action — provided it is quick and decisive, will claim the support of

The Editor,
 Atlantic Voice,
 Port Limon, Costa Rica
 Dear Sir:

Permit me space in your good weekly paper to express my opinion on a matter which I read the other day dealing with an article written by one Mr. A. Nesbeth. His subject attracted my attention very much. As a negro brother I do imagine he talks as a real democrat. Truly, as he said, if our young colored people would try to cheer up on their morals it would be of great good. To me it seems as if their obscene language becomes their greatest medium of intelligence; with other action, they truly become a disgrace to the RACE I do pray that as the days go by they will bring a change to our people in BODY and in SPIRIT.

Dealing with our daily go I do hope that the appeal of Mr. Nesbeth will find fruit and in endorsing his appeal I in turn appeal to our labouring comrades will give a hundred per-cent of support to the EMBLEM of the Vanguardia Popular; the only Party that stands to fight and defend our racial equality. Let us also recognize the Codigo de Trabajo; for it benefits.

I was ever watching the activities of the Vanguardia Popular and seeing now that the band of discrimination has been removed and regardless of race or colour, I am proud of the Party; being conscious of the fact that the Vanguardia Popular is devoted to the welfare of the working class of Costa Rica; this includes the welfare of the masses.

I desire to encourage everyone from this date onward to become a member of this group of fighters for our social and economic progress.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor.

Respectfully yours,
 JOHN B. BURKE

NOTE OF WELCOME

Our city is highly graced with the visit of Messrs. D. H. Burt and Woodrow Blackman of the San José headquarters of the Jehovah's Witnesses.

We learn that a very interesting lecture on the subject—"The Bible Spotlight on Religion" was given by Mr. Burt last Sunday night in the local Kingdom Hall.

It was noted with much interest the untiring zeal of the field workers of the Port Limon city Company in the invitation campaign; seeing that every section of this city was informed and invited to attend the lecture and hear the lecturer, Mr. Burt. Another message is said to be set for tomorrow, Sunday and to which the general public is again invited.

WEDDING RECEPTION OF MR. AND MRS. JOHN ROBERTSON

There is a sphere continually around us in which we ought to reap joyfully. This saying does not only apply to the sowing of the grain seed, but is mostly applicable to the seeds sown in life's garden and unspeakably wonderful is the growth, with fragrance to perfume the dulness of spirit in others. Seeing God and to talk with Him as expressed by Mr. Robertson yet sweeter than the perfume of roses is the possession of the virtues which keep us erect.

There are times when we play with the flowers along the path but today we are gathering them to make a beautiful carpet to bedeck the heads of Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson on the occasion of their marriage on Wednesday the 20th ultimo and the very cheerful and bounteous reception held in their very attractive residence on the night of Sunday, February 24th of the year in course. We may further mention that it was a stately and magnificent affair; — one which was enshrined with piety and gracefulness.

The festive board was splendidly presided over by Mr. Herber DaCosta who was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Priscilla de DaCosta and their three nieces. She in turn pronounced the blessing before meals.

The highly selected guests included General Ricardo Monge our deeply regarded Chief of Hacienda and his loving wife — Mr. Arthur J. Vincent and Doña Cruz de Vincent, of the Merchandise Department, Mrs. Louisa Stewart and two of her children; her husband, Mr. Joseph Stewart was unavoidably absent Mr. Arthur Foote, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Steele and children, Mrs. Ruth McIntosh, Mrs. Ophelia Birch and the writer.

The hours spent were ripened with mirth and joy and in the indulgence of wedding toasts and other highly interesting items on social past-time. Almost every invitee touched the summit of the moment. General Monge in his deeply seated speech mentioned the long years of his family's acquaintance with the bride, the former Miss Doris DaCosta Burgher and they have always found her a highly worthy character. Mrs. Priscilla Da Costa also spoke glowingly on the characteristic good qualities of the bride who is a native of St. Thomas, formerly of the Danish West Indies; she has almost from her cradle days adopted Costa Rica as her home.

The groom, Mr. John O. Robertson is no stranger to this community. He has established a clean record with the North-

The Madre de Dios Baptists held a very lively time a fortnight ago in the fruit rally which was brilliantly staged. The labours of the sponsors and participants were crowned with blessing Mrs. Isabel Christian was the torch bearer in the front line of march and with the able backing of Mr. James Montague who attended to the musical feature of the rally.

Among the Young People who recited are Masters Earle, Lussel Carlos, Joseph, Horace, Valdez and Zedekiah. The Misses Dorothy, Yvilet, Titty, Joyce, Estelina Morgan, Delfina, Grace, Nelly and Violet. Several duets and solos were also rendered; that of Mrs. Christian under the title "Cheerful Help" was very appropriate, crowning the very good deeds which she and others had done in the premises.

The rally was based on the products Cocos, Banana and Abaca.

The first named was triumphantly led by Miss Phyllis Farquharson, Miss Verona ran a lively pace for second honours in the representation of Banana and in the name of the latter, Miss Linnett Scott gave her valuable contribution.

This entertainment other than the splendid purpose for which it was held was the medium of stirring our communal life and reminding us of our rightful services to the Church.

Very instructively as well as amusingly the Reverend Wm. Forde, the pastor of the Church presided over the programme.

Did You Know? MAKING VICTORIA CROSSES

That: X-Ray Unit Can Penetrate Steel

A remarkable British X-ray unit which can penetrate two inches of solid steel or eight inches of aluminum was on view in London recently. The unit is used for the detection of errors in assembly and general industrial research and control.

That: Penicillin Scientists are Wiping Out Cattle Disease

Research scientists in Britain are using penicillin to cure dairy cattle of mastitis one of their most serious diseases. The results are "almost too good to be true," says Professor Scott Watson, who is chief Education and Advisory Officer to the Ministry of Agriculture.

That: Unbreakable Spectacles Exist

A British scientist has invented spectacles which can be trodden on, dropped or bent without being damaged. He is Professor Low, inventor of the bi-focal lenses—used for both long and short sight—and the contact, invisible lens which fits over the eyeball. His latest invention, unbreakable glasses, weighs less than a quarter of an ounce. They are made from one piece of fine wire with tiny, half moon lenses set just below the line of vision. The wearer can lift his eyes from his book for normal sight without interference from the glasses.

That: "Pickpack" Craft was used in the Pacific

Another wartime secret now revealed, is that Britain had produced a pickpack ship at the time the war in the Far East came to an end.

This steam-driven transport ferry, designed for use against Japan, carried a smaller craft on its upper deck and launched it by listing to an angle of forty-five degrees when it arrived at its destination. Lashed to its sides were pontoon pier or causeways, which could be used as portable wharves.

These ocean-going transport ferries are now to be used to carry the fleet of small craft needed in the Pacific for the task of taking relief cargoes to devastated areas. They will now carry thirty-five tons of peaceful cargo.

PALUDRINE - THE NEW ANTI-MALARIAL DRUG

A new and revolutionary compound for the treatment of malaria has been discovered by a team of British research workers.

The new drug, until recently known as 4888, is to be distributed in a form to be known as paludrine. It marks a revolutionary departure in anti-malarial research, since it is a much simpler compound than any anti-malarial drug known hitherto, and is much more powerful, and has a much wider influence upon malaria than any known specific.

Until recent years the only drug of any real value in the control of malaria was quinine. Apart from attempts to synthesize quinine, research chemists over the last thirty-five years have sought to make chemical compounds of their own design to combat malaria. There emerged only two compounds of any value—pamaquin (plasmochin) and mepacrine (atebrine). Mepacrine is much superior to pamaquin for the treatment of human malaria, and in spite of certain shortcomings was of paramount service during the war, particularly after the Japanese overran the quinine-producing areas of the East Indies. Authoritative medical opinion now considers that mepacrine is fully equal in value to quinine and even in some respects superior.

During 1945 a team of I. C. I. research workers at Blackley, Manchester, discovered the existence of anti-malarial activity in a class of compounds hitherto unexplored for this purpose.

Paludrine was first administered to human patients by the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine. Clinical trials began at the school in the beginning of February, 1945, and in the course of the work more than 100 cases were successfully highest award within the British Empire and Commonwealth for valour in arms — that's ever been awarded, comes from a modest little jeweller's shop in the West End of London. You would hardly notice it in your ordinary goings-and-comings unless you called at the bookellers next door or walked out of the old pub just over the road.

Every Victoria Cross — the

To that little shop the postman every now and again takes a letter marked "O.H.M.S." And that has been happening ever since the Crimean War and right up to the end of this war. For the making of V.C.s has been in the hands of the same family — first the founder of his jeweller's shop then his son, and now his grandson. At first sight the Victoria Cross looks as though it would be quite easy to make. Any good metal worker could one might think, tackle the job. Just the bronze medal, the same colour as an ordinary penny, and the red ribbon. But a closer look shows it's not so simple. Perfect craftsmanship is necessary to achieve such a delicate design. The model itself is in the shape of a Maltese cross and embossed in the centre is the Royal Crown. On the crown stands a lion. Every detail, even down to the lion's nostrils, is absolutely flawless, every line and every curve is perfection itself. Under the crown are the two words "For Valour", words that seem to gladden out at you and give you the feeling that you're in the presence of something mystical. And then there's the red ribbon.

And all this is built by this jeweller family into an insignia only just over three long and an inch and a half wide. The V. C. the most cherished decoration there is, is yet the most democratic, for anybody in the Navy, Army, or Air Force — a ship's boy, a general, a night pilot — in any British or Empire serving unit, can win it, and the award is made whether the winner survives or not. The only condition attaching to the award is that the act of bravery must be carried out in the actual presence of the enemy.

MONTGOMERY OF ALAMEIN

I understand that Field-Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery will retain his family name in the style of the viscountcy he stowed upon him in the New Year's Honours List and will be Viscount Montgomery of Alamein.

He could not be simply Viscount Montgomery because the Earl of Pembroke is also Earl of Montgomery of the Great Arden and there is moreover, a Scottish barony of Montgomerie dating from 1445, which is held by the Earl of Eglinton.

For the normal territorial basis Sir Bernard has chosen Hind head in Surrey, and the peerage will be gazetted as Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, of Hindhead, in the County of Surrey.

Sir Bernard is following in what now seems to be an established tradition among Service peers of retaining their surnames in their titles.

SIR H. ALEXANDER

I understand that this course is also likely to be adopted by Field-Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Governor-General-designate of Canada.

For a similar reason to that mentioned in the case of Sir Bernard Montgomery, Sir Harold is unlikely to be simply Viscount Alexander. That style has been used in the past as a courtesy title in his own family. The Earl of Caledon holds a viscountcy and a barony also, but there has been no ceremonial occasion as yet when he has used either as a courtesy style for the peer, and the practice has been to use the title of viscount to the family name, as is done with several other cardinals. The present Lord Caledon, Sir Alexander's eldest brother, has no son.

But even if this style has never been used by Sir Harold's own family, he could, under the rules, be deprived from being Viscount Alexander without territorial suffix by the fact that there is a dormant Scottish barony of Alexander of Tulloch, created in 1630 with the viscountcy of Stirling, and again in 1633 with the earldom of Stirling. All these titles have been dormant since 1739.

LORD ALAN BROOKE

It is under tood that Field Marshal Lord Alanbrooke Chief of the Imperial General Staff, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Cunningham of Hindhope, and Marshal of the RAF Lord Portal of Hungerford intend to keep the same styles in their new viscounties. A notable difference in Lord Portal of Hungerford's case, however, is that while the barony conferred on him last year may descend by special remainder to his elder daughter his viscountcy has the normal limitation to heirs male.

Marshal of the RAF Sir Arthur Tedder, I understand, is to retain his name in his barony as Lord Tedder.

Of civilians who appeared in the Honours List Lord Southwood is to retain the same style in his viscounty, Mr Colin Campbell is to be Lord Colgrain.

man, Victoria Yunis, and Isabel Yunis. Their escorts were Messrs Alberto León, Abel Amador, Alfredo Abdelnour, Armando León, Francisco Sánchez and José Garrón.

The marriage ceremony was solemnly performed by the Rev. Fr. John and after which the happy wed, accompanied by their guests proceeded to the family residence; — there the number increased to nearly two hundred persons; all in glee tendering their affection and respect and with congratulations to the Bride and Group and their parents.

The setting at the reception table was an added charm; at the eastern end there was the adornment of two horse shoe shaped emblems made from San José beauty roses.

The bride, of course, with her husband at her side personally attended to her guests. She was happy in thought that everyone was made comfortable and satisfied and so were all for the "EATS" and DRINKS were enough to take care of a multitude.

The Johnny Steale orchestra dished out the dance music to the lively tripping of the dancing guests.

The Atlantic Voice wishes Mr and Mrs. Alfonso Yunis the full treasury of a life of wedlock.

and Mr. Phillip Inman is to be Lord Inman.

Mr. Campbell's choice is explained by the fact that he is a cadet of the Campbells of Colgrain in Dumbartonshire, and Colgrain is the ancient seat of the family.

treated. By arrangement with the Medical Research Council, supplies of the new drug were then flown to Australia for more extensive clinical trials, have confirmed that this new drug is not only more effective but is also considerably less toxic than either mepacrine or quinine. Paludrine is most remarkable in its protective action against the infection from the bite of a mosquito. It is more effective in this respect than either mepacrine or quinine, and I may be that suitable dosage will afford complete protection.
