

INFLUENCIA de la fuerza INSTINTIVA EL GRAN DESFILE DE LA VICTORIA EN LONDRES

b) El Yo: punto dependiente.
c) La relación ideal del Yo, Ello, Mundo Exterior, Pueblo, Gobierno ante las funciones comunes.

JOSE TASIES SOLIS

A qué llamamos instinto...? A todas las necesidades físicas, que representan estímulos de la actividad psíquica. Se hace necesario explicar o anotar, que el Ello está saturado de instintos: sintéticamente se puede decir que toda la actividad del Ello procede de los instintos.

La fuerza instintiva reclama cierta o total satisfacción en el Ello generan los instintos que pueden aparecer en el Yo, pero en una forma de derivados. Como ejemplos podemos señalar el hambre, el amor; que son instintos del Ello, que necesitan una satisfacción veces muy urgente. Siendo el Ello incapaz por sí sólo de sa-tiar su deseo, recurre a aquella parte suya que está en contacto o en funciones del mundo exterior; este espacio viene siendo el Yo.

No es correcto que el Ello se conduzca por sí solo a la (necesidad) saciedad de sus deseos hacia el mundo exterior; la experiencia nos enseñará que si esto sucede, los trastornos consecuentes serán de gran repercusión en el aparato anímico.

El encargado de que no se fracase en esta misión es el Yo, que ha de servir como un intermediario entre el mundo externo y el Ello. Vemos como la actividad del Yo se orienta en dos direcciones: una que se dirige hacia el mundo exterior, donde ha de buscar el momento oportuno para aprovechar un medio de satisfacción del Ello exento de todo peligro, y la otra que se dirige hacia el Ello para dominar sus pasiones o sus propios instintos aplazando su propia satisfacción, incluyendo el caso de abandonar sus fines contra una indemnización.

Cuando el Yo y el Ello se encuentran en estas relaciones, se dice que existe el estado ideal y no debe haber ningún temor por las perturbaciones.

Cabe aquí decir, que la decisión de cuando se debe reprimir la satisfacción del instinto y doblegarse a la realidad lo mismo que cuando se debe atacar el mundo exterior para la saciedad del instinto, es algo que reclama sabiduría; será mejor decir que en eso consiste la sabiduría.

Es ideal, pues, la regulación que ejerce el Yo sobre el Ello sabiéndose que el último tiene una intensidad mayor que el primero.

Aplicando esto al grado comparativo expuesto unos párrafos antes, obtenemos por resultado lo siguiente: cuando el pueblo desea colmar su tranquilidad, ya sea con una compañía local, nacional o extranjera, el gobierno como intermediario, con sus atribuciones de tal, ha de cumplir con su deber buscando el momento oportuno y exento de peligro. de buscar y dar lo que el pueblo por justa razón ha pedido y hecho suyo, como un ideal. Si el gobierno sabe cumplir con su deber, la normalidad se establece en el sólo momento necesario para solucionar cualquier conflicto justamente.

LONDRES, 28. — Las señas de los preparativos para el gran desfile de la victoria del día 8 de junio se hacen más visibles con cada día que pasa en distintas partes de Londres. En los Jardines de Kensington, donde se encuentran acampados los destacamentos de ultramar, se contempla una pequeña ciudad completa en todos sus detalles. Cada día se informa de nuevos contingentes que vienen de países distantes para participar en esta magna reunión de todos los aliados de la segunda guerra mundial. Del continente americano han llegado tropas de Brazil y México, y su oficialidad vive en los hoteles del oeste de Londres. Los periódicos han anunciado que el cuartel general subterráneo del grupo de cazas N° 11, desde el cual se dirigió la famosa "Batalla de la Gran Bretaña" en otoño de 1940, servirá para controlar el desfile aéreo de más de 300 aviones por medio de una red de estaciones de radar. De ser favorable el tiempo, el escuadrón de cazas de la R. A. F. encabezará el desfile volando a gran altura y dejando huellas de humo. Luego se verá un sólo aparato "Hurricane" que tomó parte en la épica batalla, pero hasta la fecha no se conoce el nombre del piloto quien tendrá el honor de pilotarlo. Diez diferentes tipos de aviones de servicio, incluyendo bombarderos Lancaster, hidroaviones Sunderland, Mosquitos, Beaufighters, Firebrands y Fireflies de la aviación naval pasarán sobre la base del saludo a intervalos de veinte segundos. Es debido a la gran diferencia en la velocidad de los distin-

Mañana domingo visitará ésta ciudad el Profesor Joaquín García Monge.—Ofrecerá una conferencia a los Maestros

Nos han suministrado la gran noticia de que el profesor don Joaquín García Monge, Director del "Repertorio Americano", visitará esta ciudad el domingo próximo, es decir mañana y que ha ofrecido a los maestros de las escuelas dar una conferencia sobre temas pedagógicos. Indudablemente la visita del eminente literato y pedagogo será de mucho beneficio para los maestros de esta zona que pocas veces tienen oportunidad de cambiar ideas y conocimientos con hombres de la categoría intelectual del Maestro García Monge.

LA VOZ ATLANTICA aprovecha su visita para presentarle su más atento saludo deseándole grata permanencia entre nosotros.

Será colocado un teléfono en la esquina del parque para llamada de automóviles del Hospital

Dentro de pocos días será instalado en la esquina del Parque Vargas un teléfono con un timbre especialmente fuerte para llamada de los automóviles desde el Hospital de la Compañía Bananera. Este servicio en realidad está haciendo mucha falta porque la mayoría de la gente que van al Hospital tienen que regresar a pié a la ciudad por la dificultad de conseguir carros. En esta forma las cosas se sim- plican con la llamada a la

Las Obras de la Catedral de Washington se Terminarán Pronto

La Catedral de Washington

WASHINGTON. — La Catedral de Washington, uno de los numerosos lugares de culto y peregrinación en esta capital, se destacará muy pronto como el principal de los edificios. Hombres y mujeres de los 48 estados de la Unión, animados por la fe y el altruismo, se han concertado para recaudar fondos destinados a dar remate a esta inspiradora obra arquitectónica que se comenzó en 1907. Estima el comité designado al efecto que será preciso allegar $10.000.000 para terminar la construcción del templo.

La Catedral está situada sobre una colina, llamada "Mount St. Albans," que domina la ciudad. Cuando se termine la torre central del edificio, descollará más de 100 pies sobre la punta del Obelisco de Washington, que es actualmente la más alta estructura de esta capital.

Uno de los grandes anhelos de los que proyectaron la ciudadera disponer de un lugar nacional dedicado al culto religioso dentro del Distrito Federal de Washington. En los albores de la Historia de los Estados Unidos, Jorge Washington solicitó a L'Enfant, el arquitecto francés, quien planeó la capital, que trazara también el plano para la construcción de dicho templo. Pero hasta 1891 no se logró que un entusiasta ciudadano hiciera un llamamiento a sus amigos y colegas religiosos para discutir la labor de recaudar fondos y dar comienzo a la construcción.

Dos años después, el Congreso de los Estados Unidos concedió a la "Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation" el privilegio de establecer y mantener, dentro del Distrito de Columbia, una catedral e instituciones docentes para difundir religión, cultura y caridad.

Los terrenos en que está enclavada la Catedral miden actualmente 22 hectáreas y media y han sido cedidos principalmente por ciudadanos ricos de Washington. Además de la Catedral a medio completar, hay allí seis capillas, el Colegio de Predicadores, tres escuelas, una biblioteca y la residencia del obispo de Washington, así como numerosos jardines y parques que hacen de esta Catedral uno de los principales puntos de atracción de la capital.

Hay asimismo el plan de construir una capilla en memoria de los soldados norteamericanos que cayeron en las guerras pasadas. Cuando la Catedral se encuentre terminada, medirá 600 pies de longitud aproximadamente, y su torre central se elevará cerca de 300 pies sobre su base.

Influencia...

Viene de la Página 1ª—
za instintiva, la que hace actuar al Yo en la forma cuidada; debiendo elegir en una forma u otra el camino para mantener la normalidad.

De lo dicho se obtiene como lógica consecuencia, que en los momentos de concordancia anímica social, la vida se llevó a cabo en los órganos psíquicos, con la regularidad necesaria que establece la normalidad.

Limón vivió mucho tiempo una vida normal: cuando es establecida la relación natural del gobierno con su pueblo, donde los dos tenían que juntarse y luchar duro por un interés creado común a su bienestar. Eso fué cuando la provincia de Limón tenía por respaldo el poder económico de la compañía frutera, exportadora del banano; los contratos celebrados por dicha compañía y el gobierno de Costa Rica, establecieron relaciones directas del Yo con el mundo externo. Mientras tanto el Ello vivía sin ninguna tendencia; al menos alguna que otra como es natural, pero que no impedía el desarrollo de la vida.

Notamos así, el proceso de vida llevado a cabo por un organismo psíquico normal; se hace visible la existencia acorde de los tres componentes del aparato anímico: el Yo, Ello y Mundo externo; que quiere decir, según el grado comparativo: el Gobierno, la masa y la compañía explotadora.

Se hace ver tan importante misión del Yo; su trabajo implica el de mediador entre el pueblo y dicha compañía. El gobierno por medio de contratos representa al pueblo ante las compañías, y trata de solucionar los problemas que se suscitan, tanto previniendo de parte de uno como de otro. Lo que quiere decir que sus funciones toman dos direcciones: una que se dirige como representante del pueblo ante las compañías, y la otra que se dirige ante el pueblo, unas veces para dominar sus propias pasiones o instintos aplacando su propia satisfacción si así fuere necesario; incluyendo el caso de hacerle abandonar sus fines en contra de una indemnización por sus propias manos. Esta segunda orientación es principalísima en sus funciones.

Vamos aclarando así, lo que en otros conceptos parecía haberse dejado un poco obscurecido; las funciones del Yo que vienen siendo en ese caso el gobierno.

Si, estimados lectores, la sociedad adquiere ante nuestros ojos las formas inefables de una quimera, de un gigante que todo lo puede, que todo lo hace y deshace todo al mismo tiempo La Sociedad alquien la definió diciendo que eran las eczemas del mundo, por ellas supuran... Son tejidos vivos que crecen y se unen entre sí, unas veces por su bien, otras para su mismo mal. Pero no solamente tiene puntos criticables, se encuentran en ellas aspectos que son dignos de alabar; nos han prestado inagotables servicios que han hecho más llevadera la vida actual; medios acomodaticios, medios de adquirir cultura en demasía, lo que nos pone en un plano superior a nuestros precursores de las varias épocas.

Pero no se escapa a nuestra observación, el fenómeno aquel tan curioso del comportamiento de las masas que forman la sociedad. Aquella metemecosis que sufre a causa nuestra que somos individuos de la sociedad costarricense. No escapan a nuestros conceptos las enfermedades que sufren las diferentes masas que forman la colectividad patria. Esto se debe a que en el seno de estos gigantes hay, abstractamente guardado un espíritu

El pergamino, dibujado por el conocido caricaturista costarricense Noé Solano, tiene la siguiente dedicatoria: "La Asociación Nacional de Locutores al prestigioso comentarista Jorge A. Camacho (Atalaya), en reconocimiento a su meritoria labor desarrollada en los aciagos días de la Segunda Guerra Mundial". Atalaya, que quedó muy complacido de su visita a San José de Costa Rica, llamado por urgentes atenciones de otros países americanos no pudo estar presente en el acto de la entrega del pergamino. Esta se hizo al Agregado de Prensa de la Legación Británica, O. R. ### LAS LAGUNAS DE TORTUGUERO

Desde hace muchos años se está tratando de conseguir la canalización de las Lagunas de Tortuguero. Cuantos hombres de buena voluntad han pasado por aquí desempeñando posiciones políticas o públicas, se han dado cuenta de los inmensos beneficios que tendría esta vía fluvial para la zona atlántica.

Extensas zonas de tierras casi vírgenes podría convertirse en verdaderos emporios de riqueza. El trabajo no es obra de titanes. De treinta millas de camino fluvial hay apenas catorce kilómetros que es necesario abrir con dragas. El resto son lagunas más o menos extensas en que la navegación no ofrece dificultad ninguna. Hay en esta región innumerables caños navegables que desembocan en la enorme extensión de la laguna. Caños que son caminos de penetración por lo que puede sacarse cuanto produce esa tierra prometida.

Pero hay sobre todo, escondida allí como tesoro de leyenda, la riqueza inagotable de los árboles. Sólo la explotación de esas maderas convertiría la provincia de Limón en la más rica de toda la República.

Un libro, escrito hace ya muchos años por el caballero don Federico Gólcher, contiene cuantas referencias pueden desearse sobre estas tierras y sobre las facilidades de la canalización de esas lagunas. Ojeándolo se sorprende el lector de la facilidad con que esa obra se puede ejecutar. No es un libro de visionario sino una obra de empresa. El señor Gólcher reunió en él todos los estudios y todos los informes que la experiencia de muchos años logró acumular con paciencia y cariño por esta obra de inmenso beneficio nacional.

Es hora de que se vuelva a revivir este olvidado empeño. El señor Rossoff viene a Costa Rica buscando la inversión reproductiva de capitales americanos. Ninguna empresa nacional podría rendir un beneficio mayor que la canalización de las lagunas de Tortuguero y nadie mejor que este empresario americano podría llevarla a cabo.

Sucesos Inverosimiles

Quando abandonó aquel teatro de revistas, el millonario llegó a la conclusión de que se había enamorado furiosamente de la "vedette" que hacía con sus bailes y canciones, las delicias de pú blico.

Deseoso de entablar relaciones con ella, comenzó a enviarle todas las noches, costosos ramos de flores, obsequios que no lograron interesar mayormente a la dama de sus sueños. Solamente y después de recibir cierta noche, momentos antes de la función, una impresionan te pulsera de oro, cuajada de brillantes, creyó también ella que el amor había golpeado en su corazón.

Desde entonces se les vió siempre juntos en todos los lugares de diversión de la ciudad. Hasta que al fin, el millonario decidió un día hacerla su esposa, pero antes de proponérselo quiso conocer los antecedentes de ella Recurrió a la agencia privada de detectives especialistas en estos casos e hizo seguir secretamente con uno de ellos a su amante, esperando durante algunos días ansiosamente el informe que lo llenará de tranquilidad o tal vez de dolor. Y el informe llegó. Decía textualmente así:

"La señorita Paquita Ríos, de profesión artista teatral, es una persona que ha gozado hasta hace poco tiempo de una conducta y moral intachables. Parece ser que se ha desviado de la buena senda, pues últimamente se le ha visto acompañada de un millonario de pésima reputación".

Un señor que luchaba denodadamente en un restaurante céntrico para cortar el filete que le habían servido, en un momento dado, y al hacer un brusco movimiento, envió con la punta del cu-chillo un poco de salsa que, cruzando el aire, fué a dar justo en las solapas del saco del otro comensal, próximo a él. Este, enfurecido al observar las manchas en su traje, se levantó del asiento y tomando, con las manos la sopera de su mesa se acercó a la del primero y volcó inexorable, íntegramente, la sopa de verduras que había en ella en el abrigo que colgaba de la percha.

---¡Ojo por ojo, diente por diente! ¿Qué me dice usted de cómo ha quedado su sobretodo?

A lo que el señor del filete, respondió asombrado:

---¡Yo no digo nada, porque no tengo sobretodo! Ese abrigo es de aquel señor que está allá, hablando por teléfono/

Al medio día llegó a su casa con un hambre feroz. Su esposa no se encontraba en esos instantes en el hogar, por haber salido a hacer unas compras en la tienda del barrio... Deseoso entonces de aplacar en parte su apetito, de una frutera rebosante de apetitosas naranjas, plátanos y manzanas, el señor tomó una de estas últimas, aplicándole golosamente un mordisco. Pero inmediatamente hizo un gesto de repugnancia, tiró la fruta al suelo y corrió a enjuagarse la boca con un vaso de agua, mientras enojado murmuraba:

¡Otra vez el miserable del verdulero ha engañado a mi mujer, vendiéndole fruta en mal estado! ¡Iré a devolvérsela y le cantaré cuatro frescas!

Envolvió en un papel la fruta, y en pocos minutos entraba en la verdulería de la mitad de la cuadra, echando chispas por los ojos, e indignado, le gritó a su dueño:

---¡Cretino! ¡Engañará a mi esposa, pero no a mí!

Vitaminas

Muchos de los dueños de puestos de verduras montados con todo lujo en el extranjero, han contraído la saludable cosumbre de estar frecuentemente rociando las verduras, tales como lechuga, /Estas manzanas tienen un sabor horrible! ¡Las he probado y por poco me descompongo!

El verdulero recibió la fruta, la observó y luego, calmamente, le replicó al cliente:

---¡No es a mí a quien debe quejarse, señor! Tiene que hacerlo en el bazar de la esquina, pues estas frutas son de cera.

y espinacas, con agua fresca para que aquellas conserven su contenido de vitaminas C. Sin embargo, de acuerdo con los experimentos hechos en las estaciones agrícolas, se llegó a la conclusión de que el esperar simplemente y sencillamente con agua las verduras, resulta de casi nulo valor. Pero cuando se les pone en frigoríficos o en hielo, las vitaminas C se conservan tan efectivamente, que tan sólo el 10 por ciento se pierde después de una semana de almacenamiento.

LIMON: FRUTA MARAVILLOSA

Desde poca muy lejana se ha usado del limón como medicina para ciertos males.

Arabes, chinos, persas y africanos lo utilizaban con frecuencia en refrescos y postres, como también en algunos cuidados de belleza femenina.

Se ha comprobado que sus propiedades antisépticas son maravillosas, así como experimentos realizados demuestran que esta fruta posee un jugo que neutraliza muchas bacterias. Por esta razón, el doctor Lustig, notable especialista europeo, lo considera un gran regalo de la Naturaleza.

La vitamina C, que se encuentra en gran proporción en el limón y toda fruta cítrica, es indispensable para el cuerpo humano.

Experiencias hechas por el doctor Lind, en mil setecientos cuarenta y siete sobre el escorbuto, en la marina inglesa fue el resultado, según consta en varias publicaciones que se decretara el suministro de una cantidad diaria de zumo de limón para los tripulantes.

Los dolores sordos o punzantes del reumatismo son una advertencia: revelan que ciertos órganos vitales no cumplen en debida forma su tarea. Los dolores en las coyunturas y músculos se deben a la formación de aflados y microscópicos cristales de ácido úrico, que no han sido eliminados del organismo.

Los riñones deberían eliminar de la sangre este exceso de ácido úrico (y demás impurezas y venenos). He aquí por qué, usted, al sentir las primeras punzadas reumáticas, debe procurar que sus riñones vuelvan a funcionar en forma.

Las Píldoras De Witt se elaboran especialmente para que obren sobre los riñones débiles e inactivos. Descongestionan, estimulan y fortalecen estos órganos. Dentro de las 24 horas de haber tomado la primera dosis la orina se tornará azulada. Esto demuestra que el excelente antiséptico que contienen las Píldoras De Witt empezó a eliminar las impurezas y venenos. Sus riñones volverán a la normalidad. La inflamación e hinchazón de las coyunturas disminuirán, como así los dolores. Las articulaciones rígidas recuperarán su agilidad. Los riñones reanudarán sus tareas, eliminando las impurezas de la sangre y expulsándolas del organismo, mediante el maravilloso mecanismo de la naturaleza.

He aquí por qué un tratamiento con las Píldoras De Witt es tan conveniente para el alivio del reumatismo. Van directamente a la fuente del mal; los riñones.

ARTICULO VIII:

Por unanimidad se acordó: pedir al señor Gobernador que informe detalladamente de lo invertido por la municipalidad en la adquisición e instalación de la unidad de bombeo de la cañería para gestionar con el Poder Ejecutivo al reintegro de esa suma a la Corporación, tomándola del producto del impuesto de importación creado con ese objeto.

NIGERIA AND THE POST-WAR PERIOD

War might not be a desirable factor in the relations of man, but it is not totally devoid of good. It has recurred over and over again in an age-long trail as a result of continued existence of ills in the societal structures of intertribal and international relations. But, as envisaged by philosophers, the world will be better advised to contemplate a hermitage for its denizens to pursue wider studies of anthropology, if the present carnage, which eclipses all others in cumulative effect, fails to level the wounds in our social, economic and political relationship.

The end is nearly at sight, but the peoples in this part of the world can pause and ask: how are we emerging from it? Hitherto, our political machinery is still a routine of the pre-war era. Any growth of nationalism is, to say the least, still sought for and axed. Majority of the indigenous population are strangers to opulence and constant victims of the evils of squalor. Exploitation still rears its head. And not once were we told that our educational system it of a hybrid nature. And it is on all these incongruities that our very future depends!

Notwithstanding our sympathy for the cause of freedom, events moving partipassu with the conduct of the war do not seem to afford us any Jamaica and Bordados have been granted political reforms of varying natures, good or bad. Ceylon is at the moment on the highroad to political emancipation. And, nonetheless, East African colonies will be benefited by handsome shares of the Colonial Development and Welfare Fund. All these are practicable even in the midst of war But not in Nigeria on such a large scale!

Before covering the spectacles of our wounds, we may yet ask another question: How are all these reforms exacted? They are sure results of sane nationalism. As the architects of our own fortunes, we have our parts to play, and can still unearth concrete results from our hits and misses. For, if by their votes and pleas, the indigenous legislators and in securing to families and tribes, the best possessions, peace and unqualified freedom; if, by their fearlessness and energy, the prosperity of the country is enchaced to the greater benefit of the indigenee; and if, by our concerted efforts, we could design and proffer the proper education, social reforms and all that makes for happiness for our people, then it is needless to wait for the verdict of posterity before we know that we have not lived in vain.

Champion Jockey

British Sporting journalist — on the "NewsChronicle" (London)

In the year 1904 at the little townlet of Oakengates in Shropshire, England, was born a sturdy youth named Gordon Richards, destined to break every record hitherto set up by a jockey on the English Turf. Now, at 42 years of age, he is pre-eminent in the racing world.

Richards' whole career is a romance. He began his working life as a clerk in an office; but that was not good enough Gordon was ambitious, and when one day he read that Martin Hartigan, a well-known racehorse trainer, was in need of likely stable boys, Gordon answered the advertisement and was engaged. That was the start of a job which has brought him increasing fame each succeeding season.

It was in 1921 that he rode his first winner, a horse named Gay Lord. In 1924 he had 61 winning mounts, and in 1925 he became champion jockey for the first time. Since then Gordon Richards has headed the list of successful "flat racing" jockeys every year with but two exceptions — in 1926 (he had chest trouble and did not ride after the opening week) and in 1930, when the late Freddie Fox beat him into second place in the race for the jockeys' championship.

In 1933 Richards rode no fewer than 259 winners, and thus broke the long-standing record of another famous jockey, Fred Archer, who had held the record of 246 in a season. In 1943 he passed Archer's aggregate of total wins, and in November, 1945, Richards rode his 3,000th winner — emphatic proof, indeed of his genius in the saddle. The champion has a few more year's riding ahead of him to add to his long list of successes before he retires to set up as a trainer — which I understand he intends to do.

In the autumn of 1933 Gordon rode twelve consecutive winners, a feat unequalled in the history of horse-racing. He rode the last winner of the day at Nottingham, and followed up by taking all six races at another meeting, Chepstow, on the following day. On the concluding day of the Chepstow meeting he was on the winners of the first five races.

"Working Partnership" With His Mount

As to the secret of Gordon's outstanding jockeyship, I would say first and foremost that he rides so many winners because he rides so few bad races. Gifted with a perfect sense of balance and a happy temperament, a love of his craft and considerable patience, he beagms with assets which are denied to most young horsemen. Yet there is still one more very important factor which contributes to his racing triumphs — he has the ability to achieve what is perhaps best described as a working partnership with his mounts. And never is this more valuable than when he has to deal with highly strung or "difficult" animals.

This year Gordon has high hopes of at last winning the one big Turf prize which has so far eluded him - the famous Epsom Derby. His mount is likely to be Edward Tudor, brother-horse to Owen Tudor, the Derby winner of 1941.

To look at, this famous little man is not a particularly impressive figure. He is just under five feet in height and weights about eight stone, and has screwd and twinkling eyes.

It is extraordinary the strength he packs into his small frame and never is that power so much in evidence as when he is apparently "lifting" a reluctant animal past the post.

Richards has many interests outside racing. He farms a considerable area around his home and he has built up a famous loft of racing pigeons in which he takes a keen and justifiable pride. He is a director of the Swindon Town football club, a sport at which, in his younger days, he was very good. Usually he spends his winter holidays in Switzerland and on those occasions has developed much skill at curling, a game like bowls played on the ice.

But perhaps his biggest interest of all is his family. He has three children: two boys and a girl. He has hopes that the youngest boy may follow "in father's footsteps", but at 14 the lad is growing rapidly, so we shall have to wait and see.

There, in brief, is a profile of a grand little sportsman whose honesty of purpose and outstanding ability in his chosen profession have made the most popular English jockey riding today.

IN CONTINUATION OF "AMONG THE BAPTISTS:"

In continuation of our report on the Mother's Day Concert by our friends of the Baptists we arrive now at the singing items; Her we present the trio — "Lord teach me to pray". In the rendition of this item, we conclude, at the out set that Messrs. Alfonso Taylor, Oscar McRae and Mrs. J. Stewart have indeed asked God to teach them to sing; the evidence was presented that God has answered their prayers; they stood on a visible stage but their voices were attuned to the music of another realm. The congregation was again led into enchanting sphere with the captivative singing of the trio — "Mothers of Men", by Messrs. Alfonso Taylor — Oscar McRae and Ben Escoe another demonstration of creative genius. Then in a comparative high standard a duet was contributed by Mesdames Evelyn Murdock and J. Stewart: On with the humourous dialogue: "Bertie's wife, featuring a mother-in-law who got on the fence when told that her son had contracted a strange marriage; the flare she displayed gave rise to the thought that a calamity of events had taken place and that nothing could make amend for the action of her son".

The playet was portrayed by

Miss Iris Williams as Mrs. Ransome — Miss Carmen Taylor as Miss Matilda — Mr. Alfonso Taylor as Mr. Bertie Ransome — Miss Olive Gourzong, Bertie's wife — Mr. Ben Escoe, John the Gardener — Mr. Johnny Humphreys as Dr. Curem. The role of servant was a "treasure" as was personified by Miss Vera Gillings. That was the steaming point of humour; particularly when she "tila-lee" with John, the Gardener for lack of pluck in his state of almost chronic bachelorhood while she had been yearning for some one to "pop"

the question. We gained the moral of the composition when Mr. William Ransome became gravely ill; his wife and children were lacking, the rendering of First Aid, but the unpopular daughter-in-law, in the sight of Mrs. Ransome was the medium of great assistance until the arrival of Dr. Curem. Mrs. Bertie Ransome closed the dialogue with the following lines:

"Tis love that makes the (world goes round And keeps it bright and sunny; 'Tis love that make's life a joy And not as some think — (money. 'Tis love that makes us good (to do, And service high to render And makes us kind, and true (and good, Forgiving, gentle, tender, Then let us ever cultivate Tis Grace above all others; Pasa a la página OCHO

THE PERMANENCE OF THE CHURCH FROM OUR DESK BY THE EDITOR:

There are people who seem to imagine that the days of the Church and her attendance are past; that the Church and Christianity has served their purposes; that they have exhausted their mandate; that it was alright to convert our ancestors during their days of slavery, but the greater majority of men today, believing themselves to be free men from the service of God since they enjoy freedom in materialism; that Christianity was all very well to give men a solace and hope in the state of poverty, but now they are prosperous and they have no further use for the Church.

You go to the Churches practically in every location in this city and you will find that all the congregations in the majority are women - hardly any men there at all. The women true to their old and noble traditions of the past, still linger around the Cross when men have left it. But the men have gone; and it is largely attributable to the fact that they have gained considerable wealth; become prosperous and their hearts have waxed gross with such temporary success.

We must not be deceived; no nation or people have ever done that without paying the price. There is a growing tendency to treat Christianity as it were but a stage in the march of humanity towards a higher mode of living; — only as a stage along which humanity must pass, but which it must, in spite of the beauty and grandeur of its scenery, leave behind it if it means to reach a more exalted destiny. This should not be the attitude of men, especially when it is quite visible that humanity is marching through the dreary and parched, arid plains which are stretched between one hemisphere to the other; men hearts failing them in every place; that which awaits at the end of the journey, cannot be prophesied.

The uncertainty of life represents a long tramp through a desert, ere it is reached, footsore and weary, the fertile oasis is the grace of God through His Only Begotten Son.

The Church is designated as the sacred place of worship in the same light as the Tabernacle was given to the Children of Israel in the Wilderness. We might claim that it was the long ramble through the wilderness that had brought pressure on the Israelites to worship God in the Tabernacle; but to the contrary. We may not be persued by Paroah's hosts, but we have our perils as well as our joys and it is a fatal mistake for anyone of this age to think that modernism aims at inaugurating a new model of Christianity; such is a fallacy; nothing of the kind; no new idea can shell off the true worship of God; services to Him through divine worship in the House designed in His name.

We firmly believe that when men who from the altitude of their self-sufficiency shun the churches; they are leaving behind the most effective agency to guide them through the dangerous paths of life, for strengthening their hearts to hear the inevitable sorrows of life; there is no other idea

THE EAGLE ACES FRIENDLY CLUB EARNED DISTINCTION:

In felicitous spring-time nature there was seen the most imposing human meadow in the Hall of the Universal Negro Improvement Association presented so by the attractive, fashionable and colorful gowns of the ladies, the new style attire of the men, and like beautiful white snow drops just springing was the appearance of the shell coat anchored on grey shade pants, the uniform which distinguished the members of the Eagle Aces Friendly Club who were sponsors for the impellant pleasure on which swings the Club's Third Anniversary Dance on the night of Saturday the 18th of the recently passed month.

Joyfully tuning our harps we played in high "G" in the realization that our friends of the Eagle Aces have risen higher in the celebration of the 1946 anniversary.

The spacious hall and its ample accommodations were features of enhancement to the splendour of the fetsival.

The Riversiders had keenly studied the different tastes of the dancers and the assorted recipes were served accordingly; some of the dance numbers were served with pickle pepper supreme while others were the "rock-abye-baby" in the cradle or hold me closer; this latter was our personal relish as well as those guests who were in our circle; that is approaching on borrowed time of life.

The Management extended special attention to the invitees; see to their every need; the worms could not reasonably complained of any inadequate liquid supply whether extremely hot or chilly. The crowning glee was the absence of the slightest dischordant note.

The Anglicans associated with the St. John's Church at Zent celebrated an Easter Programme on Sunday, April 28th.

The reciters included the Misses E. and J. Whitehorn;

WE ARE LIVING IN HOPE

The small cultivators of this zone were seemingly jubilant over the creation of the Limon Rural Committee under the jurisdiction of the National Bank of Costa Rica; hopes were entertained that ere this the very needful farmers would have received some measure of financial assistance from the Bank, but as we gather the very desirable Rural Committee, with all sincerity to help their fellows have been faced with many problems. It was mentioned that these gentlemen were invited to attend a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Institution on May 6, with the view of dealing on one of the principal embarrassments; that of surveying the cultivated non-titled lands on which many farmers are in the designation of "squatters"; issued the necessary document to enable the cultivator to secure the Bank's financial help. Whether the meeting was convened we have no knowledge, but we continue to be optimistic concerning the financial assistance promised to our small planters.

At this writing we glean that the Directors are disposed to exercise every possible means to intensify the cultivation of cacao in this zone; the new programme in its entirety has not been made known to us, but we do hope such will be a realization. Our cacao is urgently needed by many of the South American Republics.

Merits Of British Broadcasting

Orderly and regular radio transmission started in Britain in 1922 under the direction of the British Broadcasting Company, whose managing director was a tall and angular young Scotsman named John Reith. In 1926 the Government of the day transformed the company into a non-profit earning public service Corporation, under a Charter giving it for ten years sole authority to erect and operate radio transmitters. In 1936 an eminent Committee enquired into the effects and as a result the Charter was renewed for a further period of ten years. As from 1947 it may be taken as certain that the Charter will again be renewed. This has little or nothing to do with the fact that Britain today has a Socialist Government; no matter what the party complexion, the decision would be the same.

What The Public Wants

To those accustomed to continual criticism of British broadcasting in the British press, this may seem strange. Broadly, however, it may be said that the contrasted broadcasting systems of Britain gives the public what it wants. We are quite aware that monopoly involves a certain risk of dullness and respectability. Not for us the exciting procession of dramatising commentators, contending for favour by the capacity to shock or delight their fans. But if we sacrifice this, we get something, and something which we greatly value, in return. We have confidence in the detachment, impartiality and objectivity of what we hear. Our listeners prefer, by and large, reliability to excitement. They like to feel that broadcasting is wholly clear of commercial pressure, direct or indirect. They want to trust it and are prepared to pay the necessary price.

Mrs. Eulale Murdock acted as mothers of bygone days; the changes from babe in her lap were represented at each stage by children of distinct sizes; the climax came when as the son fonso Taylor and Miss Carmen Taylor took the marriage vow at the hands of Mr. Victor Gourzong as the officiating clergyman. Mrs. Leonie Jackson did the announcement during the acts. Miss Olive Gourzong in a pose of sweet repose personified the dreaming mother. The scene was pathetic and the participants acted with creditable pathos.

Citizen's Education and Entertainment

The argument from popular approbation (tempered by the grumbles and gibes which are the British citizens' birthright) would influence any administration. For a Labour Government it is reinforced by a general preference for having public services run in the interest of the consumer of those services. Broadcasting has from the start been, in this sense a "nationalised" industry. Indeed it stands, with London's transport and London's port and electricity generation, as an example of the 20th. century notion of how nationalisation should be operated.

Control is vested by Government in an autonomous corporation whose policy is directed by a board of persons appointed for a period, not as specialists, still less as interested parties, but on grounds of their general and collective competence to watch over and promote the wishes of consumers, to see that through impartiality, fair play, a right distribution of programme time and an adequate reflection of the life of the community in its multifarious aspects, broadcasting serves both the education and the entertainment of the citizen.

It is, from this point of view, an instrument for correcting that time lag in the transmission of knowledge, whether factual or cultural, which is one of the great problems of democracy. No-one who surveys the wholly unregulated influence of the film on the mind of nations can help feeling that there is a good deal to be said for a steady and coherent effort to put the best available in all fields before those who listen. The B.B.C. is dedicated to that task.

The "Punch" Cartoon

Of course it is criticised at home as well as abroad. It is a national institution and, as such, inevitably arouses the healthy national inclination to find fault. Did not "Punch" once print a cartoon in which a typical clubman, turning over the pages of the current issue, grunts to a friend: "Punch" is not as good as it used to be". "No", comes the reply, "it never was".

So there are always people complaining angrily about this or that item—musical, critical, political—because it does not correspond to their own views, serenely unaware of the fact that it is one of the merits of broadcasting to report the views one does NOT hold as well as those one does, and them as far as possible which lurks unsuspected in one's favourite newspaper.

Much of the criticism heard of the B.B.C. derives from the fact that it is as non-partisan and objective as an institution run by human beings can be. This which gave to its news service vice such incomparable value for Europe during World War II, remains its major achievement. We in Britain see that achievement as connected with the fact that it is run as a public service.

LUCK DOES NOT TRUST TO LUCK:

By Earl M. Smith

The below is an extract translated from a publication in Spanish in the War Cry of Havana, Cuba.

Mr. Smith states: 'I have not offered articles of commerce with premiums; numbers of lottery nor insurance policies. I have always rejected these offers although I have much luck'.

"I have not committed errors in which; at no time received any trickery in lotteries or raffles; no horse has attracted me in races; nor have I lost any money playing cards; Some one may say to me: "Then you do not know the joys to gain by luck". As far as is considered the happiness of earning premium by luck; in any form I do not want such joy. I do not know for example; the happiness that can be resultant from such exit or that of a deceiver; nor have I been given the satisfaction to win in a pain from the sword or from a pistol which came from a specie of loosing card while one plays his life.

"I am very contented to remain in the pleasure of gain in gamble; for me there would be no pleasure; after thinking those (some more needful than I am; some desperate, perhaps) who lost their last ten cents and have to face afterwards a dislodger.

"Could a Christian be content with the money of others? that would be the same as to rob a hungry child and to boast of your exploit. Card game is a specie of consented or legal robbery and with robbery in the end. It buys nothing; it sells nothing nor gains nothing. None wants to be cheated, but the gamblers take the risk of a small loss as that of a robbery of much money in bet. Frankly, I have no interest in no similar business. Let us return to the matters that have luck; luck in studies; luck in business; in the marriages, etc. Many times we receive good without depending on them, without trust in them.

AN UNPLEASANT TERMINATION

Very unsatisfactorily terminated the Cubs-Motive Power baseball contest on Sunday the 26th ultimo. The atomic bomb was dropped at the end of Motive Power seventh inning: Let us follow the play:

The diamond was taken by the Clubs and with Haying in the pit; the catching was entrusted to Miller; the umpire-in-chief was Gunney Xirinach and Bancroft Scott (Big Boy) was the base umpire.

Inning 1.—Motive Power: Bertie Evans was dropped by F. Cope; Vinici cooked at home; George Babb pegged at First; Vegas out off at Third; no run. Bertie Evans commenced pitching for his team. Byron faced him and got safely to First. Donney Haying gained the same advantage; Osmond Daley caught by George Babb; a safe hit places Altimont to First; on came Cope and perish; S. Miller was successful to First; evoking a grand ovation George Hazel hit a three bagger and Calderon was stopped by the pitcher. The inning closed for 3 runs for the Cubs.

Inning 2.—Motive Power: A safe arrival to First was gained by Daniel but in stealing to Second he was destroyed Pickings got away to First; into the comfortable gloves of Byron fell Alfonso Crawford; freed to First was Vegas lot while Clifford Edwards took his medicine at the hands of the catcher. Motive was again without run.

In the response the Cubs were also dismissed without change in the score. Haying was caught by the catcher; a carpet sweeper earned the First base for Byron. The fire of Evans swunged Donney at the plate; the final fall was a catch of Osmond's sky racket by Vinici.

Inning 3.—Motive Power: Bertie Evans struck a two bager; Vinici baked Sherry safe to First; Cope hit a three bagger; Daniel cooked at plate; Pickings safe to First; Alfonso stewed at home. The first two runs were chalked up for Motive.

In the corresponding inning Cubs again was decorated with the badge of "Nought" — Altimond drove a ground liner but was rather slow in running to First; Cope hit a three bagger and an overthrow afforded him a good chance to reach home, but in attempting he fell midway and rises only to retrace his steps to Third. S. Miller taken by Vinici and a double play pegged Cope on a force off.

Inning 4.—Motive Power: Both sides were defeated with out runs: The batsmen, Vegas-

Edwards and Evans were dismissed in the order of A. B. C.; in other words pitcher Haying pulled off a great feat; his first delivery was a hit by Vegas, but he died at First. Edwards hit the second delivery and was pegged at First and Evans was caught by Cope. The pitcher was loudly cheered for the novelty.

Cubs: George Hazel was caught by Vinici; Calderon fell by the way and Haying pegged at First.

Inning 5.—Motive Power: Paul relieved Haying. He was best by Vinici to First and in following on Sherry was nipped to First by a daisy pick up by Calderon. The base runner was given out by the base umpire, but for some reason or the other he quickly reversed his decision and declared Sherry safe; a conflagration set in; Mr. Scott relinquished the post; Almanzo Lazarus was rousingly cheered as he left the stadium for the diamond to fill the vacancy; in continuation of the play, Babb caught by Osmond; a wild catch by Joe took Daniel; a free base was given to Pickings; a two bagger was gained by Alfonso; to first base was a gift to Vegas; a racket by Edwards was taken by Byron. The gain for the inning was 3 runs for Motive Power.

Cubs: Vinici was now pitching for Motive. Calderon got to First; Donney with a liner steered his way to First; Osmond caught by Evans; Altimont drove one over the freight; care; he earned three bases; Joe saved himself to First; S. Miller pegged at First; George Hazel Burnt the gain being 4 runs.

Inning 6.—Motive Power: Evans pegged at First. Vinici fried; Sherry got to First; Babb followed and Sherry was short lived to Second; the badge of "Cero" was worn.

Cubs: Calderon free base; Paul enjoyed the same; Byron caught by Vinici; Donney reached safely at First; Calderon arrived at home; Osmond caught by Evans; 1 run was scored.

Inning 7.—George Babb best the pitcher to First; Daniel reached First while Babb advanced to Second; Pickings was chilled at the plate; Alfonso caught by Calderon; Vegas faced the pitcher; a pass ball and Babb attempted to steal his way to Third; at this time the umpire-in-chief was Stanley; his signal was then two strikes and three balls; the pitcher effected the delivery and before the umpire had given his ruling Babb was nipped by the catcher between Third and the Home; the umpire said he was safe; an appeal to every authority on the ground and it was in the majority that the base runner was caught stealing and was nobbed. It was a matter of controversy; neither side would give in; conflagration rises; the fire of the unjust blazes; and in plain every day talk—"The play come".

El Partido de repetición ordenado por la Directiva de la Liga Limonense fué ganado por el Barcelona por 2 tantos a 1 del Júpiter

Por la pésima actuación del árbitro Alfonso León, en el match Barcelona Júpiter, la Directiva ordenó la repetición de este match, con gran ventaja para el Júpiter. Se jugaría solamente 70 minutos, con un goal a favor del Júpiter, q' en el sentir general fué un regalo del árbitro León y el Barcelona con diez ugadores.

Pese a esta gran ventaja para el Júpiter los barcelonenses entraron al campo con el deseo de hacer una demostración de su juego tan reconocido no solamente en esta cancha sino en las del país, y fué así que supieron sostenerse todo el tiempo con gran ventaja sobre los jupiterianos, que al terminar el partido les metieron dos pepinos y Júpiter solamente uno y por penal. Gracias a la actuación de su golero no recibieron una formidable paliza.

Es bueno que los equipos se les quite de la mente que los juegos deben ganarse en la mesa, mediante de apelaciones y otros argumentos de que se valen para obtener buena puntuación, nada mas honorable que ganar los puntos en el terreno y pensamos que en lo sucesivo ningún equipo hará más uso de ese sistema tan generalizado, no nos queda más remedio que aplaudir la decisión tan justa tomada por la Liga al ordenar un partido completamente viciado en su forma.

El partido ha sido uno de los más reñidos e interesantes que hemos apreciado, se jugó un buen fútbol, solamente se lamentó dos cosas; la falta de respeto al señor Juez y el golpe recibido por el extremo izquierdo del Barcelona que tuvo que abandonar el campo y dejar a su equipo con nueve jugadores, por lo demás merecen un aplauso ambos equipos.

Wimbledon Tennis Hopes

Lawn Tennis will stage the most open Wimbledon championships in June-July since the Australian, Gerald Patterson, won the a men's singles in 1919 at the first meeting held after the First World War. Frank Parker (America) or John Bromwich (Australia) is the prospective 1946 champion. England's outstanding player is Charle Hare, though Eric Filby is not far behind.

Britain meets France in the first round of the Davis Cup in Paris. The England selectors have had a most difficult task after six years of war which stopped all competitive play in this country. The Wightman Cup match at Wimbledon ish and American women will promote far more interest since England has many more promising young women players than men. The last time the match on June 14-15 between Britw was played, in 1939, America were the winners.

Lawn tennis tournaments have been arranged in England for every week from April to the end of November.

Lion to Lead Victory Parade?

Plans for the great Victory Parade on the eighth of June in London are being worked out in high political and military quarters with all the meticulous attention to detail of a "D" day operation. Suggestions pour in from an interested public, the latest from a gentleman in Greater London who reared a lion in his garden and presented it in 1943 to Mr. Churchill. Whether the story that Mrs. Churchill was heard to say that two lions in Downing Street were more than she could manage is apocryphal or not, the lion, Rota, was passed on to the London Zoo where it now resides.

The suggestion however, is that Mr. Churchill's lion should lead the Victory parade, thus demonstrating to the world that, although his tail may have been twisted once or twice in the last few years, he is still good for a few more roars. Whitehall which has watched the execution of Charles the First and only the other day held its breath while two steep-le-jacks climbed the 1945 feet of Nelson's column to look for war Jamage, would certainly welcome the novelty.

THE BIG TWELVE

The night of the gala contest draweth night. It will be Monday night the 17th instant when the Big Twelve will vie for supremacy at the rally of the Port Limon Branch, No. 134 of the Jamaica Burial Scheme Society.

Wagers are already voicing their opinion on the outcome, anticipatingly. Several persons have assured us that the pitch of the contest will rest on the most handsome of the representatives; if that so we know of a sure winner, but we do not think so for it is truly said that it is not the model of the gun which makes the shot effective, but is the man behind the gun.

Talking about the proposed oration we recall the story of the African who was rather surprised when a request written on a piece of chip made known to the reader what was wanted; he exclaimed that "The English can make chip talk", but believe me dear reader it won't be talking chips; there will be men to talk and tell us things which we had not heard before; silver tongue orators will battle for fame. Each one of the representative is worthy of his spur. One from the lines is said to have ordered three extra coaches to be attached to the passenger train on Monday the 17th to convey his supporters. Listen Uncle Churchill; watch out for countryman; The other night whilst eve-dropping we heard one of the townie in his rehearsal — "Mr. Chairman, madams and sirs; passing the floor of his drawing room — Here I am masticating this most saltacious and charming-tactious platform", Order — says the chairman.

PERSONALIA

Mrs Leniel Brown de Graham, teacher of the Old Harbour English Private School and her little son Maurice are in the Capital. The youth has undergone surgical treatment at the San Juan de Dios Hospital. We received pleasingly the information that Maurice is obviously out of immediate peril and is well on the way to recuperation.

The glad news is to hand that our good friend Mr. Eddie Hart of Estrada-Siquirres, who, unfortunately is a patient in the San Juan de Dios hospital is progressing satisfactorily. Mrs Hart as we learn is constant at his bedside. The sick is a brother of our most energetic and sincere agent, Mr. George Hart of "Bataan" 25 Miles. We trust Mr. Hart will soon be well.

Mrs Jane Poyser, a very prominent fraternal and social personage is on the sick list; confined to her bed and under the care of special "medico". She is receiving the warmth of her host of fraternal associates, friends and well wishers. A speedy recovery is our earnest prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Bent 28 Miles were early week visitors to this city. It was rather pleasing to have seen them and to say "hello".

The Death and Burial of Mr. Frank Parker

God in His divine blessing had bestowed a life of eighty five (85) years on Mr. Frank Parker who had resided at Cedar Creek district on the Zent Line. Those brittle thread, however, gave way on Saturday, eight days ago.

Mr. Parker had the proud distinction to have had his birth on the land of his fathers in the city of Liberia in Africa. He had come to this Republic nearly a half century ago. The dwellers in his village as well as all other persons who had known the deceased have advanced testimony in conjunction with his good life's career and although he has ripened in years, never-the-less his passing into the Great Beyond is deeply felt. The funeral service was conducted by Mr. Theophilus Brown. His marriage to Mrs. Florence Parker, his widow has Among these are Messrs. Cecil,

Mr. Richard George

It was not a trip pleasure, but one that was based on a most praiseworthy cause; that of visiting the bedside of a loving mother; then leaving no stone unturned until the objective of returning with her to the family residence; such has been the accomplishment of Mr. Richard George who had left our city nearly two months ago for

John and Stanley Parker; Mrs. Lillian Parker de Hart who is abroad and Mrs. Miriam Parker de Fernández of this city.

To these greatly bereaved loved ones we pour out our sincere condolence. May the soul of the departed find rest eternal.

Douglas Mac Arthur B. B. C. running bad in the present base ball championship, disputing the ESSO Standard Oil Cup.

The boys from Limon failed to shop up to complete the team for the scheduled game as of May 12th in which they were to meet both Escuelas Internacionales and Canada Dry teams in a double header, and the Nacional Baseball Federation declared both games forfeited. They lost also to the Coca Cola team on Sunday morning 19th. ult, 2 to 3, and now have lost a total of four games for only two won with their win over the Costa Rica, 8 to 6 last Sunday.

This puts the champions in bad running shape, and if they are to conquer the coveted trophy, they must win the rest of 14 games left to complete the schedule and in which they will have to play all double-headers, or otherwise, they will be tail enders for the present season. Fan feel they cannot understand the slack playing of the boys of the Mac Arthur's aggregation, and also believes that they are not showing that enthusiasm they displayed during last years run for the Cup. We hope that the boys, realizing that they are the only colored ball team in the running, and too, because really, they are the best running aggregation, they should get down to business and see that they win all the other games they have to play. This is the wish and desire of well wishes of the team. A. Fan.

OBSERVATION

It has been observed that a new Government Decree has been issued in conjunction with the securing of Certificate of Birth at the General Register Office in San José; that is; in case where no original registration was made of the child born of alien parentage in the territories of Costa Rica, it will be necessary for the applicant to furnish four creditable persons to effect a declaration in support of the birth of the child in the Republic. This testimony will be required before the Civil Judge. However, we gather that baptismal or christening Certificate from the Clergy will be recognized as sufficient evidence.

On Tuesday of the week in course with mellowed delight we contacted Mr. B. Campbell, the Atlantic Side Representative of the esteemed Panama Tribune.

The very distinguished son of the Republic of Panama resides in Colon. His fame in his journalistic career had preceded him to this Republic; having been moved by many of his writings. Although his presence with us was somewhat brief, yet we were privileged to gain ripen fruit from his intellectual garden.

We sensed a feeling of regret that Mr. Campbell's itinerary did not afford the necessary stay in our city; — such time which would have effected it convenient for Limonenses to show in their characteristic tangible manner a cherishable greeting to the visitor; more so to one in such well known capacities.

We close this chapter with gratefulness to Mr. Jos. N. Brotherton our very popular townsman for having directed Mr. Campbell to our office.

Bulletins From Britain

SPORTS IN GREAT BRITAIN

Sport in Britain in 1946 is having a wonderful revival. It will be firmly established on a pre-war footing by the month of June when a tremendous influx of visitors is assured for major attractions like:

The great races at Epsom for the Derby (June 5) and the Oaks (June 7).

Return of the four-day Royal Ascot meeting (June 18 to 21).

Lawn Tennis Championships at Wimbledon (June 24 to June 6) and the Wightman Cup lawn tennis match between British and American women, also at Wimbledon (June 14-15).

First Test Match at Lord's cricket ground between England and India (June 22-24-25).

Greyhound Racing Derby at the White City, London (June 29); and Fight for the British Heavyweight Championship between Bruce Woodcock (Doncaster) and Freddie Mills (Royal Air Force), in London (June 4).

THRILLING DERBY PROSPECT

Flat-Racing, under Jockey Club Rules, began on April 1, and meetings have been fixed for nearly every week-day until the season ends in November. The first two of the five Classic races, the 2,000 and the 1,000 Guineas, took place at Newmarket on May 1 and 3 respectively.

Classic prospects have never been brighter. The five best colts are all sons of Lord Derby's wonderful sire, Hyperion, the world's leading stallion, for whom his owner has declined tempting offers, exceeding £100,000, from syndicates of American breeders.

These five Hyperion contenders are: Lord Derby's Gulf Stream, Lord Astor's Aled Lamp, the Aga Khan's Khalid, Mrs. Macdonald-Buchanan's Edward Tudor, and Mr. T. Lilley's Radiotherapy.

Both Lord Derby, now over 80 years of age, and the Aga Khan have already won the Derby three times, but the coveted prize has always eluded Lord Astor, who has been striving for it more than 30 years. In one unlucky seven-year spell, colts carrying Lord Astor's colours were second in the race on five occasions. Incidentally, the Derby, is one of the few races our champion jockey, Gordon Richards, has never won.

A strong challenge to Britain's Derby candidates will come from France. M. M. Boussac, the leading French owner, having entered his

World Needs Economic and Social not Military Security

Major Powers Must Call Truce to their Political Quarrels and Concentrate on task of Developing and Fairly Distributing Throughout the World its Infinite Resources

"Atlantic Voice" publishes timely editorial of "Daily Herald", London.

London, May 30. — Making an urgent appeal for worldwide cooperation, the "Daily Herald" today published the following editorial on international affairs: There is speculation in many lands about a third world war. This is no idle talk. Every honest man must admit that a clash is inevitable unless wisdom and tolerance prevail in the turbulent council of the Great Powers. So far the portents are entirely psychological. There is a deep suspicion in Russia of the British and American motives.

There is deep suspicion in Britain and America of the Russian motives. But a few years only at the present rate will suffice to bring those suspicions to the explosion point, and an explosion, will make a wilderness of this earth. What is so terrible and so serious is that this 'next war' is not decreed by the common people of any country. Nor do we believe that any country's leaders are deliberately plotting aggression. The fact is that the nations ardently desire to lash space together. Mothers do not breed sons with the object of mourning their death in early manhood. Women do not marry with an eye to widowhood. Men do not toil to make homes because they want to see those homes bombed and blasted. The instinct of all people in all countries is the instinct for peace, and after two world wars it might have been assumed that the yearning for peace would take full charge of the thoughts and deeds of men — that they would be anxious above all to accommodate one another, to make lavish allowances for one another's prejudices and fears, to study each other's points of view rather than lapse again into jealousy and doubt. But jealousy and doubt and suspicrack-two-year-old of 1945, Nirgal.

The Ascot Gold Cup (June 20), the winner of which ranks as the world's finest stayer, will also have a real international flavour for the first time for many years as French owners intend to send over their champions.

African Doctors in training-Work of Nigeria's School of Medicine

One of the most difficult problems which faces the four British Colonies in West Africa is the battle against disease. Apart from the treatment of diseases there are the attendant tasks of removing the causes—climatic conditions, malnutrition and ignorance of hygiene all help to make the work more difficult. As it is not possible to staff the hospitals and dispensaries with European personnel, Africans are being trained in increasing numbers to assist and eventually to take over the medical welfare of the territory. In 1930 a School of Medicine was created in Nigeria, a colony which has an area four times that of the United Kingdom and a population of 23 millions. The training takes five years and the medical student must previously have passed an 18 months course in chemistry physics and biology at the Higher School in Yaba. Much of the students practical training is gained in the Outpatients and Casualty Departments of the Hospital, where he performs minor operations himself. More detailed knowledge is obtained in the various clinics such as the Fracture Clinic, Venereal Disease Clinic, Ear, Nose and Throat Clinic. He must also have a knowledge of the public utility services and understand the problems of housing, sanitation, mosquito control and epidemic diseases. The School is in its development stage and has still far to go, but qualified men are turned out annually who are doing valuable work in the Government hospitals throughout the country. Some of the graduates, having completed their term of Government service are now in private practice. Students of the School of Medicine on their rounds at the African Hospital, Lagos, call to see child patients in the play pen.

While we argue about politics, great areas of the globe are facing famine and starvation. While we quarrel about military security, no positive steps at all are being taken to achieve worldwide economic security, which, once attained, would render obsolete all jockeying for bases and spheres of influence which is going on today.

"The Allies fought the war against Germany and Hitler to ensure freedom from fear and want. So far they have ensured neither. Want is widespread and fear is worldwide. What is needed is a new approach by the Great Powers to the problems of peace. The United Nations Organisation does not consist only of the Security Council. There is the Economic and Social Council, which is capable if fully and unselfishly utilised, of removing the very causes of war. One sure way of eradicating jealousy and suspicion and thus avoiding a third world war is in our opinion that the major powers call a truce to their political quarrels and concentrate on the task of developing and fairly distributing throughout the earth its infinite resources."

While we argue about politics, great areas of the globe are facing famine and starvation. While we quarrel about military security, no positive steps at all are being taken to achieve worldwide economic security, which, once attained, would render obsolete all jockeying for bases and spheres of influence which is going on today.

New Director of BBC Coming to Costa Rica

On Monday, June 3rd, the new Director and Representative of the British Broadcasting Corporation in Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean Islands, Mr. John B. Leech will arrive in San Jose for a stay of several days.

Mr. Leech makes his headquarters in Mexico City, from where he set out at the end of May to visit all the countries under his jurisdiction, which he took over in the month of February of this year from Mr. Thomas P. Gale, who returned to London on a new assignment with the BBC.

The new Director was educated at "Leys School" and later at Christ's College, Cambridge. Mr. Leech's acquaintance with Latin America dates back to 1931, when he was stationed in Chile as an official of a British concern established in that country. When war broke out in 1939, Mr. Leech returned to England and entered the Royal Navy. He participated in many engagements in the Mediterranean, the North Atlantic and also took part in the Allied landings on the coast of Normandy on June 6th 1944.

ATLANTIC VOICE takes pleasure in welcoming Mr. Leech to Costa Rica,
