THE NEWS.

NOTES.

The success which has attended our efforts to establish THE NEWS has quite exceeded our most sanguine hopes. We have every confidence in our ability to establish, in the near future, a really first class newspaper, the organ of the English speaking Colony of this Républic, and we need but a few weeks, to enable us develop our plans, when we shall present our readers with a much larger and altogether more attractive journal. Meanwhile we are obliged to condense the news items, owing to want of space.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz, Mr. J. W. Clarke, C. E. and Dr. D. G. Inksetter, left by special train, on Sunday Morning, for the Port, en route for New York.

We hope it will not be considered an impertinence on our part if we suggest the advisability of running an excursion on Sundays (return tickets at single fare), to Cartago. The train leaves the city at 9 a. m. and returns at 6 p. m., which gives ample time to see the quaint old town, enjoy a bath in the hot medicinal springs, and pay a visit to our dear old friend, Mrs. Mills, and try her system for controlling unruly appetites, always so efficacious, and effected at nominal cost.

A private letter from Guatemala tells us that "señor don Carlos Volio Tinoco is, according to newspaper reports, going to be married to Miss Clotilde Valenzuela, a charming petite blonde of this city."

It seems there is considerable opposition to the nomination by President M^c Kinley of Captain W. L. Merry, of California, as Minister to Costa Rica, Nicaragua and Salvador. It appears

Captain Merry was, some time ago, removed by the Nicaraguan Government's action, as consul general for the Greater Republic. President M^c Kinley was not aware of this matter when making the nomination and he will not press the appointment if he finds that the Nicaraguan Government objects to Captain Merry.

We have received a large number of letters and postal cards requesting us to send THE NEWS each week and should our paper not reach, in each case, the addresses given, we shall be glad to be notified. Our Post Office Box is N^o 270.

We regret to learn of the sudden and acute illness of Mr. Santiago W. Clare. Mr. Clare is suffering from nervous prostration due to overwork, but, we are glad to learn, although still confined to bed, he is gaining strength.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Smith entertained a number of friends at their new home, on Friday evening last. The programme consisted of dancing, singing and recitations, concluding with a recherché supper.

We beg to draw attention to the advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue and headed "Lumber for Sale." Anyone needing lumber of any size and at low rates would do well to visit this Yard before purchasing. The proprietors carry a most complete stock and their low prices have already secured them a large trade.

An American firm is about to open a large butcher's shop in the city, within a few days. The concern will be attended by three experienced butchers, and, as they will handle only meats of the prime quality, a very large trade awaits them.

The funeral of Dr. J. M. Jiménez of Cartago, took place on Friday last, with military honors. The deceased gentleman was widely known and universally respected. Cartago was in general mourning for the melancholy occasion.

THE FEVER SCARE.

After careful personal investigation we are in a position to state that the fever scare in Limón is an apparition, like Peppers' Ghost, seeming only real at a distance. In addition to our own enquiry we have just received a communication from our Agent at the port in which he states,—"Limón has not had a better bill of health for years than at the present time. We are wholly unable to account for the circulation of these groundless reports."—Discussing Limón, we may observe that it is only a question of very short time when its port will rank foremost in the tropics of Central America. The large breakwater and pier, the work on which has just opened, will be of immense advantage to the growing trade of this Republic.

The complete and extensive system of sewerage just laid down has not a rival elsewhere.

CRICKET MATCH AT MATINA.

A match was played at this important section, on Monday, the 2nd. instant, between the New Hopes of Matina and the Future Hopes of Limon, which resulted in a easy victory for the home team. The visitors, accompanied by a large number of friends, arrived by special coach, and the game opened by the home team, who won the toss, sending the visitors to the wicket, but it was soon seen they could make no stand against the fast bowling of C. Shaw and the splendid deliveries of Morgan, and the innings closed for a total of 21. The home team then faced the fast bowling of Zurcher and the well placed deliveries of Ewin, the innings closing with a total of 43. In the second innings the visitors scored 44 while the Matina team made the required 23 to win in a very short time, leaving 8 wickets to fall. This is the first defeat of the Limon team. Having previously won 9 games in succession, the Future Hopes, up to this, had regarded themselves as almost invincible. The visitors were entertained with an excellent luncheon and the contest was witnessed by over 600 persons. The return match takes place shortly at Limón.

SERVANTS OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

From a financial point of view there is no doubt that a groom, coachman, footman or gamekeeper would be far better off in the employ of a petty nobleman than in that of England's queen. In other ways the queen's servants have the best of it, for after a certain number of years service they are retired on a pension and their children's future is looked after. The domestics are very near perfection. Barring the Indian retainers, who are detested by the whole household for their prejudices in regard to cooking and other things, they have all been brought up in the atmosphere of love and loyalty. Their fathers and grand fathers served the royal family and they possess in some cases more tact and appreciation of place than many courtiers. They never ask for higher wages, never give warning and are content with their lot.

The footmen are numerous. They begin their service with wages amounting to $ 25 a year and are gradually raised to $ 400 a year, but no more. Out of this they pay for their own laundry. On grand occasions they carry a gold-mounted cane five feet high. They are every one over six feet high and clean shaven.

Every precaution is taken to train the queen's horses to become accustomed to music, noises and explosions. The children of the servants are let play in the stables with their trumpets and drums. Miller, the state coachman, rarely has an opportunity to drive the queen, the last occasion being the time of her jubilee. Ordinarily in London she goes about in a barouche drawn by four horses mounted by postillions clad in top boots, white leather breeches, black jackets and hats.

The queen's personal coachman who drives her at Balmoral, Windsor and Osborne and who always accompanies her on her annual visits to the continent is an elderly man named Thomas Sands, a great favorite with the queen, who always greets him with a kindly "Good-day." Frequently when the drives are long the queen has the carriage stopped, and the equipage which is invariably carried along is set up and refreshing tea made. The queen always passes up a cup to her coachman on these occasions.

The full state livery is a very gorgeous affair and costs an enormous sum of money. All the seams of the scarlet coat, as well as the facing and the pocket flaps and the sleeves, are covered with thick gold embroidery. The buckles of the shoes are of silver gilt. The head is adorned with a white wig and a three-cornered hat similar to those worn in the eighteenth century at the courts of King Louis XIV. and King Louis XV. of France. These suits of state livery cost as much as $1,000, while those of the footmen and of their subordinate coachmen range from $500 to $700. They are rarely used except when driving the prince of Wales or the princess from Marlborough house to either St. James' palace or Buckingham palace for the purpose of holding levees and drawing-rooms on behalf of the queen, when these state liveries are renewed, however, the old garments become the perquisites of the wearers, who derive a considerable sum from the sale of the gold lace with which they are adorned.

The Union of the Five Republics.

PART 2.

ARTICLE 11.

The Councillors will be appointed for a year by the Executive of each State, and they can be re-elected.

ARTICLE 12.

In all resolutions that may affect the foreign policy of Central America, the President must consult the Council, and proceed in accord with the absolute majority of those in attendance. The President will have the casting vote, in event that those of the Council should be equally divided.

ARTICLE 13.

The following are the attributes of the President of the Republic of Central America:

a] To defend the independence and honor of the nation and the inviolability of its territory.

b] To observe the stipulations of the present treaty and enforce their observance by the States.

c] To procure by pacific means, the maintenance of public order in the States.

d] In case of necessity, to fix the means which should be contributed, and how they should be presented, by each State, for the defence of the national honor and territory.

e] To appoint diplomatic Ministers, Consuls and Consular Agents.

f] To receive Ministers and other envoys of foreign nations and give exequaturs to the Consuls of foreign nations.

g] To cultivate and encourage national relations.

h] To give passports to the Ministers and envoys of other nations and retire exequaturs in favor of consuls in the cases provided by law.

i] To fix the contributions, and their form, that should be paid for common expenses.

j] To maintain harmony between the States.

k] To celebrate and ratify treaties of peace, friendship, commerce, navigation and extradition, or pacts contracts or stipulations that relate to the individual interests of any one State, or which have been brought about by its solicitation, should be submitted to the Assembly of same.

l] To procure the greatest possible extension of the means of communication between States and of the maritime commerce of their coasts.

m] To procure at the earliest possible moment the greatest uniformity in the money, weights and measures, in accordance with the decimal system and common fiscal and customhouse regulations, as well as uniformity in the system of studies.

ARTICLE 14.

The Council is also authorized to develop in its labors a basis that may serve to unify the interests of Central America in the matter of legislation.

ARTICLE 15.

Diplomatic and consular representation will in future be in the name of the Republic of Central America.

ARTICLE 16.

For the exercise of the attribute referred to in paragraph [e] of article 13, the Council will, in justice, take care that the authorized representatives come from the different States.

ARTICLE 17.

It is understood that whenever a State may require diplomatic or consular representation for its account, the person indicated by such State will be designated for it.

ARTICLE 18.

The principal duty of the Council is to maintain fraternal harmony between the States; and if their good offices should not bring about the desired object, recourse, without further appeal, will be had to arbitration.

ARTICLE 19.

It is recognized that this treaty has no other intention than that of hastening the reorganization of the Central American Fatherland, and consequently no other precedent will be considered, nor will any other interpretation of its clauses be admissible, except that which may tend, through pacific means and reciprocal conveniences, to reaching this ultimate goal.

ARTICLE 20.

The Central American Republic will be regarded as organized when more than one State concurs in its formation, and the non acceptance of one or some of the clauses herein will not impede the State declining or except it from entering and forming a part of the Union, always provided that in the judgment of the Executive Council such non-acceptance would not essentially affect this agreement.

ARTICLE 21.

The citizen of any of the States will not be considered as a foreigner in any other; and he will have the same rights as a native, if he manifests his desire to enjoy them to the officials in charge of the Civil Registry.

ARTICLE 22.

The civil and political condition of the Central American, fulfilling the requisite of the previous article, will be governed by the law of the State, in which he may reside, in respect to his actions while in same.

ARTICLE 23.

In consequence of the option referred to in article 21, they will be accorded the right of native citizens, with all their privileges and guarantees; and residence will give all the rights and obligations existing in the vicinity without any exclusion.

ARTICLE 24.

The documents issued by any functionary, being legalized, will have force and vigor in any State in conformity with its laws; but for the exercise of the professions there will be required besides the respective written permit. In order to practice as Notary, it will be necessary to fulfil the special requisites of the laws of the State.

ARTICLE 25.

The Central American States will consider as a common cause international questions that may affect their sovereignty and independence.

(To Continue).
