GORONATION PLANS.

That portion of Westminster Abbey known as the Chapel of Edward the Confessor is the spot where the actual crowning of King George V will take place. Officially known as "the theatre," it is here that the largest amount of attention is being given.

The King's throne—the historic old "chair of St Edward"—is elevated on a dais in the centre of the theatre facing the high altar, and is approached by five steps. Side by side with it, but two steps lower than the King's, stands the more no less "chair that will be occupied by Queen Mary.

On the right of these are the two chairs of state, with stools in front of them, that will be occupied by their majesties during the ceremony and until the moment arrives for placing the crowns upon their heads. These chairs directly face the seats reserved for the members of the royal family and the distinguished foreign and royal and other visitors whom it is especially desired to honor.

Some magnificent embroidery will cover the various coronation robes of the King and Queen, in which the national emblems will largely figure. The superintendant, for instance, that is placed around the King after the anointing ceremony, will be beautifully worked with roses, shamrocks and thistles, all in their natural colors.

An interesting innovation of rather a significant character is being made by the introduction of various colonial emblems, such as the maple leaf of Canada, the wattle bloom of Australia and the lotus flower of India, which emblems will also be represented on the stools that is placed on the King's shoulders.

Both superintendant and stole are of British woven cloth of gold, and the gold thread used for the embroidery is of a darker shade.

A BRILLIANT COMPANY.

It is now possible to indicate to some extent the brilliant company of royal guests who will attend the coronation. Already many of the delegates from foreign countries have been chosen, and the list will be completed very soon, so that the officials may approach well in advance. The problem of providing them with accommodation during their stay in London.

Germany will be represented by the Crown Prince, who very probably will be accompanied by the Crown Princess. There is also a probability of Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia attending the ceremony in a private capacity. Another interesting group is the Japanese delegation. The Mikado has chosen Prince Fuchino to represent the Japanese Court, while Admiral Togo and General Nogi will represent the army and navy respectively.

Among other royal representatives are the King and Queen of Norway, the Crown Prince and Princess of Denmark, the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir apparent to the throne of Austria-Hungary; Prince Yussuf Izzeddin, heir apparent to Turkey, and the Crown Prince Ferdinand and Princess Maria of Roumania.

Mr. John Hays Hammond, it is understood, is to represent the United States, but France, Portugal, Spain, Belgium and some other States have not yet selected their representatives. With regard to Russia, however, the Tsar is expected to attend the coronation naval review at Spithead, and the Queen of Spain is expected in June.

If some of the London newspapers were to be believed, hotel accommodation for the coronation season would be very difficult. There is not the least doubt, as has already been pointed out in the "Herald," that prices of rooms in most cases will be raised, but from inquiries made by the "Herald" on behalf of American visitors good accommodation will not be at a discount. It was recalled that at the time of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria the London newspapers caused such a scare about the lack of hotel accommodation that visitors were frightened away, with the result that some of the hotels were half empty at a period of the year when usually they are full.

At the coronation of King Edward many stayed away for the same reason, but it must be remembered that now there is about a third more good hotel accommodation in London than there was ten years ago.

Sterling before the Governor's Secretary.

BEGS TO BE ALLOWED TO LEAVE REPUBLIC.

PERMISSION GIVEN WITH THE ALTERNATIVE OF BEING SENT OFF FORCIBLY.

It was rumored yesterday that C. G. Ferguson and Washington Sterling were served with passports to leave the republic for Puerto Barrios within 24 hours. To find out if the report was true our reporter applied where reliable information could be had. He was courteously received and informed that the two men had called at the Government's Office and applied for passports to enable them to leave for Puerto Barrios. Passports were given them. Yesterday the Government sent a policeman demanding the return of the passports.

Washington Sterling appeared at the Government's Office in company with Lawyers Monge Rojas where he had an interview with the Government's Secretary.

Sterling made vigorous appeals for permission to leave the country at once as he did not care to remain here any longer. He said his life was not safe as two gentlemen had sworn vengeance on him. He was loud in his expressions of grief if a certain man got back to Jamaica, he would be put in gaol and that this man left Jamaica in woman's clothing but he can go back like a gentleman (!) I would like Sir to go away on my own account. I am sick and would like to leave here. There are a lot of vagabonds here that threaten my life, (calling their names) and I don't know when they will do it. I would like to leave as quick as possible.

We were told that Ferguson's passport was taken from him for correction.

Sterling was like an excited bull, puffing and swelling making laudable remarks about himself—how he came here as a first class passenger, and others could not do it.

He was told that he was under bond, but for what our reporter did not hear, but he was informed that Jack Williams appeared at the office at the same time in interest of himself as he stood surety for Sterling. Rumour has it that it is something like $1,000, and for a grave offense.

A message was sent to San José asking for instruction relative to his leaving. A reply was sent, saying that he could leave on his own account.

The Potato Cure.

A veteran Philadelphia soldier approves of Lincoln's birthday, said at the Union League: "Lincoln used to joke me about my superstitions. I carried, you know, a rabbit's foot for luck. "Look at this," he said one day, and he took, from his pocket a potato.

"What's that for?" I asked. "For fumigation," he replied, "I haven't had a toe of a cold since, since I began carrying it."

The Kaiser in Palestine.

TRACES OF HIS REPEATED VISITS EVERYWHERE FOUND BY THE TOURIST.

Wherever our footsteps appear in Palestine, it betokens European invasion. Red roofs are encroachments of the modern—advance guards of western "civilization."

Many streets in Haifa, might almost pass as a part of a German village. The rows of painted roof-tops, each in its neat garden, are in no degree Syrian. There were Germans in charge of the cottages to Nazareth; there were German hotels. Even the American Consul was German.

It is impossible not to notice evidences of the Kaiser's interest in Palestine. At each visit the Kaiser pays to the Holy Land a bit of gold roof is built, writes Karl Braun Orens in the "National Monthly," and after taking the drive to Nazareth he hoped for the comfort of later pilgrims that the Kaiser might pass that way.

In one place is a tablet, erected by the Kaiser to the Sultan, at others thirty German colonies; here a wall, here a monument presented by him. When on the Mount of Ascension the gale passed out the legendary footprint of the Messiah, the number of deaths that the pest work was 32,448. The United Provinces and the Punjab are the principal centers.

QUESTION PUT TO THE FIRST LORD OF ADMIRALTY.

The London "Standard" contains the following:

Mr. R. H. Housden will ask the First Lord of the Admiralty whether, in view of the alleged great superiority of the British Navy over the German Navy, he will explain how it is that when the presence of a British warship is urgently wanted for the protection of British subjects, property and interests in British possessions or protectorates or British colonies it is invariably absent or late in arriving while a German warship is invariably there or in the immediate vicinity; and whether he can state instances other than those of Jamaica, St. Lucia, Zanzibar and the present one of Lourenco Marques, Delagoa Bay, in which British subjects have had to look to the German fleet for protection and assistance.

Silver—To one teaspoonful of strong ammonia add three teaspoonfuls of water and whisking enough to make a paste. Rub on the silver with a damp flannel, then polish with chamois.

Brass—If tarnished, should be rubbed with a cloth dipped in sweet oil, and afterwards polished with soft cloths. Cutnipper, 2d brass is best cleaned with lemon juice or paraffine and buffed back. Polish with buff back that has been very finely powdered.

Nickel—Make a thin paste of emery powder, a tablespoonful of sweet oil and one of turpentine. Apply with a flannel, and rub dry with flannel dipped in dry powder.

Aluminum—Use fine whiting, the kind used for silver. The things to be removed in using for aluminum are that the cleaning substance must not scratch; that strong alkali must not be used; that the articles used must be mixed clean and be free from any trace of copper or alkali.
